aft presume to do, shall for every such offence, lose and forfeit the sum of five pounds."

The eruption from the bog near Golden continues to flow as rapidly as the lava from Mount Etna, but not quite so hot; it has driven the fish to Passage, where they are taken every night in large quantities;—all the poor people about Waterford are busied in making turf of the large pieces of bog which go down the river Suir every day.

The Cambria, Jones, from this port is arrived at Plymouth.

The City Debtors implore the consideration of the humane and charitable, whom God has blessed with affluence; they are in want of all the necessaries of life, and get very little of the bread seized by the Market Jury; they would inevitably starve, but for two or three charitable persons who send some small relief weekly.

Birth. Last Sunday, the wife of the Rev. Mr. Brabazon Smith, of a Son.
