The Chan. of the Exchequer moved that several of the public accounts be laid before the House. Ordered accordingly.

Ordered, a new writ to issue for the borough of Lanesborough.

The proper officer presented at the Bar, an account of the charges of the military establishment, ending the year the 25 h of March, 1793 Ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Douglass, the newly appointed principal Secretary to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, was introduced by the Chancellor of the Exchequer and Mr. Monk Mason, and took the oaths and his seat for the borough of St. Canice, or Irishtown, in the County of Kilkenny, in the room of Captain Marcus Beresford, who has accepted of an employment.

Mr. Tydd presented a bill for the relief of persons who have omitted to qualify according to law; which was read a first time, and ordered to be read a second time to morrow.

Mr. Burgh presented an account of the incidents of the ordnance. Ordered to lie on the table.

Sir L. Parsons wished to know from the Right Honourable Gentleman who had been just introduced, what regiments are under orders for foreign service. He said he intended to submit to the House a proposition relative to the defence of this kingdom; he did not by any means wish to give unnecessary opposition to the measures of Administration, but he observed that in the course of the last summer, the flank companies of the several regiments, which composed the flower of the army, was sent abroad, and the army was left in a mutilated state. The flank companies were sent to the West Indies, and although it has become a favourable strain of language "to stand or fall with Great Britain," yet he could not agree that the flower of our army should be sent to the protection of a sugar colony, and our country left defenceless.

The proposition he meant to bring forward would be to provide for the defence of the country, and not to leave our army at the mercy of Goverement. He said it was particularly incumbent on Parliament that a sufficient force should be kept at home for the defence of the country.

Col. Wesley, Mr. Cooke, and Mr. Burgh, made some observations respecting the military establishment of this kingdom.

Sir L. Parsons declining making any motion on the subject at present, the conversation ended, after which the House adjourned to next day.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 29

The House met, and received a number of bills and accounts ordered in.

Read a second time, the bill for indemnification and granting a farther time for those who pilot boats and ships were sunk. The range wall of the bridge is broken down in several places; and it has received other considerable damage from the ships driving against it.

A few days ago a duel with pistols, was fought in Parsonstown, by two young Gentlemen of this City, in which one of them received a slight wound in the breast, (which fortunately will not be attended with any ill consequence)—the dispute was amicably settled on the ground.

The John and Catherine, Newton, from London for this Port, was safe in the Downs, the 22d ult.

The Waterford Post had not arrived at 3 o'clock this evening, when this Paper was put to Press.
