erford, June 14.—(FEMALE HEROISM)—Tues- st, while Mr. Lawler, of Craig, and all his male tics were at the fair of Carrick, four armed Ca- s visited his house, for the purpose of robbing it ns; they entered the house, when Miss Lawler, as up stairs, on hearing them demand arms from le servant below, took up a blunderbuss, and de- she would instantly fire at the first of them who attempt to ascend the stair-case;—her undaunted iour so intimidated the villains, that they decamped ut effecting their purpose.—Miss Lawler then fired r three shots, to alarm the neighbourhood, who ed the ruffians, but we are sorry to add without s.—We cannot sufficiently admire the cool and geous conduct of this young Lady, which may d up as an example to many of the other sex, un- e same circumstances.

ulee, June 13.—On Wednesday last, at the Fair towel, one of those disgraceful riots took place, n, principally owing to the reduction in price of s, too frequently occur, because they are too little ssed. It was conducted in bloodshed, and termi- in death. Owing to the violent beating received Maurice Mulvihill, of Newtown-Sandes, in this n this occasion, he did not survive the evening of bove day. What a melancholy fact it is, that the sition of our countrymen should bear such a san- ary tendency, and that the gentlemen of the coun- o not promptly step forward to counteract so odious version of human nature, when it is already amply tained, that such principles, firmly rooted, may be ctive of other more dangerous consequences.
