It is about 6 feet wide and very shallow, with a gravelly bottom.

Castleguard -- Inhabitants

Castlegarde -- J. O'D.

Situated in the centre of the townland of the same name.

"Castleguard" is the seat of the Hon. Waller O'Grady. It is the ruin of a castle, said to have been first built by the O'Briens, and now repaired by the above proprietor. It is seated on a limestone rock and is covered with ivy. Other apartments have been added to it since 1829, at a cost of about £5,000.

Bilboa River -- Inhabitants 45

Bilboa River -- J. O'D.

Béal Átha Bó, os vadi bovis.

This river rises in the Co. Tipperary, runs S.W. for more than 10 miles through the centre of the parish of Doon, passes through the village of Cappamore, and from thence turns S. for about 2½ miles and joins the Dead River.

It is from 30 feet wide at the N. end of the parish to 60 feet at its S.W. end, and for the most part is very shallow with a gravelly bottom. In rainy weather, however, it rises to a height of 12 or 15 feet, flowing with rapid violence through a vein, the precipice on each side being from 150 to 200 feet high. Great quantities of trout and salmon with some pike and eels ascend this river for 7 or 8 miles.

Carnahalla River -- Inhabitants 46

Ceathramhadh na hAille, quarter of the cliff or steep.

Cahernahallia River -- J. O'D.

This river rises in the county of Tipperary, joins the east side of the ph. of Doon, which it separates from the above county, runs south for 2 miles into the ph. of Castletown, through which it flows S.W. for about 2 miles more, and at length falls into the Dead River.

It is for the most part 12 to 18 feet wide, but very shallow in dry weather, and with a gravelly bottom. Trout are caught in great numbers in it.

Doon (Village) -- Inhabitants 47

Doone -- Barony Map

See parish name.

Situated at the junction of 4 townlands, viz. the S.W. corner of Doon Sth., the E. of Cooga Upper, the N.E. of Kilmoylan Lower, and the W. corner of Lisgaugh.

This village contains about 30 houses, chiefly of mud, 7 of which are licensed public houses and 4 with petty groceries. It has an Established Church, a R.C. Chapel, and a Police Barrack. The Church was built about 1799 by the Board of First Fruits, and cost about £800. It is a small, neatly built house, with a tower about 30 feet high; it is capable of containing 200 persons. It has also a spacious graveyard attached to it, in extent about 5 chains long and broad. The Chapel at the west end of the village was built in 1836 at the expense of about £1,500 collected off the parish. It is a large handsome edifice, capable of containing about, 3,000 persons.

Toomaline Mill -- Inhabitants 48

Situated in the S.E. boundary of the td. of Toomaline Upper.

This mill was built some time before 1760. It is a thatched house, used as a Tuck Mill.

Lisselim -- Inhabitants

Lisselim (contd.)

Lios Fheidhlim, Felim's fort.

Liselim -- J. O'D.

Situated in the N. point of Lisowen td., on the boundary between same and Doon North.

This fort, which is circular, is about 1 chain in diameter and is 8 to 5 feet high. It is composed of earth, with a level surface, and bears heath. It is situated on the face of a mountain, from which there is a fine view.

Toomaline House -- Inhabitants

49

Situated in the N.E. corner of the td. of Toomaline Lower.

This house was built in 1829 by the Marshals, and now (1839) is the seat of Wm. Bennet, Esq. It is of a decayed appearance owing to the decease of the proprietor. It is 2 story high.

Quoneen -- Inhabitants

Cuainín, the little bay or bend.

Cooneen -- J. O'D.

Situated in the centre of the S. part of the td. of Bilboa Domesne and W. of the road leading through same.

"Quoneen" is a small burial place for children. It is supposed by the natives to be the place where Dean Story (formerly of Bilboa Court) was interred. It is about one chain in diameter.

Cappamore Bridge -- Inhabitants

50

Situated in the centre of the W. boundary of Gortnascarry townland, on the road from Cappamore to Cappawhite, and on the Bilboa River.

This bridge was built in 1800 at the expense of about £500. It is handsomely built, has 2 arches, and is about $1\frac{1}{2}$ chains long and 20 feet high.

Carnahalla Bridge -- Inhabitants

See river. J. O'D.

Situated between the tds. of Toomaline, on the E. side thereof; on the boundary between same and Tipperary; on Carnahalla River and on the road from Cappamore to Cashel.

This bridge is about $1\frac{1}{2}$ chains long and 15 feet high, with two arches. It has an old appearance.

Lisheen na Guigaul

-- Inhabitants

51

Lisín na hCuigeal, little fort of the distaffs.

Lisheennaguigeal -- J.O'D.

Situated in the N.E. corner of the td. of Cooga Lower, between same and Cooga Upper, and on the road between them.

This fort, which is circular, is about 2 chains in diameter, and about 2 or 3 feet high, with a road passing through it. One half of it is cultivated, and the other overgrown with small furze. It is seated on a small eminence, from which is a good view.

There is a legend amongst the people of the neighbourhood that, as a woman was formerly driving a cow across this fort, having a distaff or part of a spinning wheel in her hand, she discovered in the Cow's track a quantity of gold, into which she stuck the distaff as a mark till her return. But when she returned, the fort was all covered with distaffs, and she was unable to recognise the one that marked the site of the gold. It is from this incident that the fort is said to have obtained its name.

Bottlehill

-- Inhabitants

52

Situated in the E. point of the td. of Cooga Upper and about 10 chains W. of Doon Village.

Is a small eminence of an oval form, about 3 chains long and planted with fir trees, at the planting of which some bottles were found thereon, and from which it derived its name.

The New Bridge

-- Inhabitants

Situated in the N.W. corner of Pullagh townland, on the parish boundary between same and Tuogh, on Bilboa River and on the road from Cappamore to Cappawhite.

This bridge was built sometime before 1800. It is about 2 chains long and 20 feet high with 4 arches.

Bilboa Court

53

Situated in the centre of the td. of Bilboa Demesne.

This was once the seat of the Revd. Dean Story, by whom it was built between the years 1690 and 1700. He was also a Colonel under King William, and after his death was interred in the same townland (see p. 49). After him the place was occupied by two other colonels successively, the last of whom was Col. Wilson in 1769. Since then it gradually decayed to its present state. Its ruin is now 3 story high in a square form, about 60 feet

Rises in the Co. Tipperary, runs south-westwards, separates the tds. of Foilycleara, Reenavanna E. and Lackanaguneeny from the td. of Doon, and falls into Bilboa River.

This river is about 20 feet wide, with a gravelly bottom, and is very shallow except in wet weather. It has no fish in it.

Thobar na Gummaun -- Inhabitants

Tobar na gComán, well of the hurling sticks.

Tobernagommaun -- J. O'D.

Situated in the td. of Curraghakimikeen, within a few chains of the centre of the N. boundary, and to the east of the road through the same td.

This well is placed in a valley, is a spring, and has a hawthorn bush growing near it. It was anciently, it is said, a holy well, but the ^{cause} ~~cause~~ of its discontinuation as such is unknown.

Cummaun Bridge -- Inhabitants 56

Cummaun Bridge (contd.)

Droichead a' Chomáin.

Commaun Bridge -- J. O'D.

Situated on the middle of the N. boundary of the td. of Curraghakimikeen, between same and Curraghafail, & on the road through same tds.

This bridge was built about 1790. It has one arch. It is about 1 chain long and 20 feet high and about 6 feet wide. Part of it is falling to decay.

The Dead River

-- Inhabitants

57

Abha Mharbh, i.e., the sluggish or slowly-gliding river. O'D.

Rises in the Co. of Tipperary, runs westwards, forming the N. boundary of the parish of Cola, which it separates from Doon and Castletown phs., and falls in union with Bilboa River into the "Mulkeir".

This river is about 26 to 30 feet wide, and about 4 to 6 feet deep in some parts, with a muddy bottom for the most part. It runs through a flat tract of country and rises to a great extent beyond its banks in rainy weather. Its fish are trout in great abundance, with some salmon and eels, but these are being rapidly diminished by others which flourish in it.

Thobar na Girtagh

-- Inhabitants

58

The Rag Well (English) -- Inhabitants

Tobar na gCeirteach, well of the rags. Ragwell. O'D.

Situated in the N.E. corner of the td. of Kilmoylan Upper and about $\frac{1}{2}$ chain E $\frac{1}{2}$ of the road through same.

This well, which was dedicated to the B. V. Mary, is seldom now visited. A pattern was held here until 1789, when it was discontinued. It received its name from numerous rags, &c. tied on the trees by its visitors as memorials. The well is about 6 inches in diameter in a solid stone, and there are some old large oak trees about it.

Thobar Fuintan

-- Inhabitants

Tobar Fiontann, St. Fintan's well.

Toberfantan -- J. O'D.

In the east corner of the td. of Kilmoylan Lower, & about 1 chain W. of the road through same townland.

This well is about 2 feet in diameter, is of spring water, and is situated in a grove of fir trees.

Kenny's Well

-- Inhabitants

59

Situated at the middle of the east boundary of the td. of Gortavalla East, and about 10 chains E. of the road through same townland.

This is a pure spring well, about 3 feet in diameter and 3 feet deep. Devotions are performed at it, chiefly on Saturdays, and it had a pattern until about 1800.

Kyle a Chorrigeen

-- Inhabitants

Coill a' Charraigin, church of the little rock. O'D.

Killacarrigeen

-- J. O'D.

Situated in the N.W. corner of the td. of Gortavalla South, and about 10 chains south of the road.

This is a limestone rock, about 4 chains in diameter, in which children were interred in the past; but the practice appears to have been abandoned. There is a Trigl. Station on it at present.
