Miscellaneous FeaturesO'Brien's Bridge -- Inhabitants 33

Droichead Uí Bhriain, O'Brien's bridge.

O'Briens Bridge -- J. O'D.

Situated in the N. end of the parish, and on the River Shannon on the boundary of the counties of Clare and Limerick.

On the N. side of this bridge is the town called O'Briens Bridge, and on the south side is Montpelier Town with 2 publick houses. The people say that formerly there was a wooden bridge here, and that two men, one named O'Brien, agreed to build the present bridge on the understanding that it would become the property of the survivor. When the bridge was finished within one arch, the two men were walking along it when one fell in and was drowned. The survivor, the one named O'Brien, thus became owner of the bridge, which has ever since been known as O'Brien's Bridge. So runs the tale.

Cranduff Bridge -- Inhabitants 34

Cranduff Bridge (contd.)

Crann Dubh, black tree.

Cranduff -- J. O'D.

Situated in the N.E. end of the parish and on the County boundary, on the road from Montpelier to Birdhill.

This was formerly a toll bridge, and has taken its name from some stuff for colouring wood raised in this stream, which forms the boundary between the counties of Tipperary and Limerick. The bridge is about 10 feet long with one small arch about 4 feet high.
