LIMERICK LEADER. WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 29.

An Irish Industry Threatened THE Irish soap industry, which is of very great importance and capable of much development, a seriously threatened by the progress of the modern combine. What looks like a sinister and deeply-laid plot to strangle it recently came telight and, we understand, was incidentally method upon by one of the delegates present at the Conference held in the Limerick Chamber of Commerce on the occasion of Sir MAURICE LETT's visit to the city the week before last. A ertain powerful soap making company, it appears, boasted a short while ago that it had purchased a fleet of steamers to bring materhis overseas at a reduced price, the suggestion being, of course, that the public would gain by reason of the fact that by this enterprise pay- aister. ment of the high war freights in the open market would be avoided. The real object of the trust-for such it unquestionably seems to be-is to get a monopoly of the soap trade and eventually wipe out struggling competitors like those in this country. The public will, of course, be led to believe by extensive and stractive advertising that the sole object is riew is to provide an excellent article at lever price than has ever before been charged. but in matters of business in general it is well ie remember that pure philanthropy is a rare if not wholly unknown quantity. It may be, no doubt, that a reduction in cost would be made at the outset, and even continue for some time, but when the tentacles of the combine ectopus have got a sufficiently firm hold the customers may be quite certain that they will have to pay dearly for what they at first regarded in their shortsightedness as a great boon. This matter of the threatened extinction or destruction of the Irish soap industry is, therefore, one that not only concerns the Industrial Revivalists in this country but vitally affects the general public. But the whole story of the plot referred to-we think it is no exaggeration to give it such a description-prompts one to wonder whether the Government is culpably conniving at what really looks like determined blow at one of our few mmaining manufactures. The Irish Industrial Journal called attention to this very important question in a recent issue and gave timely warning as to the machinations that appear to have been set afoot. "It is a satter of public interest," pertinently remarks our useful and vigilant contemporary, "t know how a British company could become possessed of a fleet of ateamers when tonnage is so short for corn, and when people might well be content to wash themselves as usual while all available tonnege was first employed for food. We know that the Treasury has prevented any large expenditure by public companies on works, and it is strange that anyone of them could be permitted the tuxury of acquiring a private fleet in war time, The Covernment, we are told, cannot spare a vessel to bring a cargo of sugar to Limerick, where it is so badly needed, but the very same Government is obliging enough, apparently, to allow a littlish soap combine "purchase a fleet of steamers" to facilitate the work of wiping out an Irish in dustry that needs every assistance it can get. The matter is one that should be looked into at once and sifted to the bottom as thoroughly as ment regarding the non-running of excursion possible, for it is clearly a question that re- trains in connection with the All Ireland

DARING RAIDS BY GERMAN AIRCRAFT

BOMBS DROPPED ON LONDON

Two Zeppelins Brought Down The air raid on the north-east coast of Eng. and on Monday night was carried out by several Zeppelins. Lord French's report states that the casualties as a result of the raid were : one woman died of shook, and five men, seven women, and not try philanthropy in milk ! An official message received by the Admir-alty from the French authorities at Dunkirk states that a German aeroplane has been brought flown. It contained two naval lieur tenante, who had with them a large scale map of London. It is presumed that this was the raider which dropped bombs on London yesterday morning.

DISTRIBUTION AT BROSNA A farm of land owned by Mr Murphy, will have satisfactory results. The purchasing Knockaviana, Brosus, which was offered for public should do their duty in the meantime by sale some time ago, has been secured for subinsisting on being supplied with Irish-made division amongst the villagers of Brosna. The late P.P., Rev Canon Murphy, negotiated the the past two nights. The top of the bill is filled purchase on his deathbed. These negotiations by George Leonard and Lilian Stevens, who and the manufacturers, industrial revivalists were perfected a faw days ago, and Mr M Lean, and representative men should be on the sleet ODB Inspector, Trales, visited the lands and sub-divided it, fixing the purchase price to be pald by each tenant. The landlord's interest as wall as towant's interest has been bought out, and will thus be reut free for ever. This freedom in industrial as well as in national the inhabitants. Both have been sub-divided, valued, etc. by Mr M'Lean, in whose sound judgment and sense of fair play the people have the utmost confidence. THE PROPOSED FLAG DAY Letter From Mr S M O'Mara

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LIMERICK LEADER. DEAR SIR-Referring to the recent correspondence and articles in the Press on the above subject, I wish to call the attention of your readers to the following facts : - Last year's Flag Day enabled the promoters to hand over to the Society of St Vincent de Paul a considerable sum. A balauce at cet was published early in the year, but it may be useful to recall the main figures

2324 - Flag Day Collection. 72 - Direct subsetptions.

30 - Proceeds of performance at St Michael's Temperance Hall. 23-Proceeds of performance at Theatre

12 - Proceeds of performance at Athenaum. 11-Proceeds of performance at Galety 7-Sundries

36 - Expenses.

2343-Balance to Society of S: Vincent de

One half of this amount was allocated to the men's branch of the Society, and the balance was divided equally between the ladies' auxiliary branch, and the Fuel and Blanket Fund. As all the work of distribution both of coal and relief is done voluntarily by the members of the Society-there are no paid officials penny of this sum. This rough balance al cet sufficiently emphasises the generosky of the citizens, and especially the generosity of the proprietors of the places of entertainment the city. The Press and the ladies who assisted in the collection deserve also very special mention. The distress of the poor this year is, if possible more soute than ever. | Coal and food and all the necessities of life are so dear at precent that the illness of the bread-winner for even a tew days brings a family to the brink of starvawho have jeft the city for munition work and for the army, is still insufficient to give empleyment to those who are left. As Secretary of last year's Organising Committee, I have been asked to undertake the work again this year. I will gladly do so and now call on you, eir, and on my fellow citizens generally to give and to assist as heartily as you and they did last year. — Yours faithfully,

Strand House, 27th Nov. 1916. P S-Since writing you the above, his Worship the Mayor, Mr S B Quin, J P, D L, has summoned me to assure me of his heartfest approval and support for the project. He authorises me to say that for the purpose of making preliminary arrangements he will call a meeting of the citizens probably on December lich next. - S M O'M.

UNIONIST'S REMARKABLE LETTER Protest Against Die-Hardism

Appeal for a Settlement The Morning Post of yesterday published the following remarkable letter from Sir Mark Sykes, the Unionist member for Hull ;---"SIR-I have just returned from the Requiem of the Irish Guards celebrated a few moments ago at Westminster Cathedral. On my table I find the issue of the Morning Post of to-day, with a leading at ticle on Irish afficire. Between the ceremony and the article there appears to be a histur. There just been standing amid some thousands of Irishmen, who came at once to pay tribute, to mourn, and to pray for the repose of the souls of those other thousands of their countrymen and faith who have died in Flanders under the banner of St George. Those Irishmen surrendered their lives for the cause of European liberty; they died to save the lesser peoples from the tyranny of the Hammer of Thor. They died that nationalities small, weak, oppressed, and conquered might each live their own life, speak their own tongue, and develop their own individual souls. They died in endeavouring to avenge the crimes committed against the lesser nations whose very existence is threatened by the savage power of the enemy. A Prince of our Royal House attended also, and as I looked about me during the Requiem and saw the tears standing in the eyes of those thousands of Irishmen, each wearing the King's cost : many scarred with honourable wounds gained in the King's service, many bearing on their breaste tried when they think of the relations which aubilat between this country and Ice. land?" After reading your leading article, with its comparisons 'twixt the service of 'Ulster 'and Ireland as though the two were two pations, with its deliberate confusion of Nationalism and rebellion, with its implied insults, its epithets of 'sullen' and 'bribed. its scornful references to 'fair share of obligations,' and its request that 'Ireland be gov erned with strength and justice,' I do not think, but I know, that every line must lacerate the hearts of the man among whom I lately stood with, saeva indignatio, such as Swift himself cannot have endured. were told by a great leader but tately that we must do the right thing at the right time to win. Elsewhere in the Colonies, and in America, wherever the Irish are, we have chacked onthuslasm, stimulated old grievances, and blouded men's minds with doubt. In Ireland Itself the tragedy will not bear looking on the enemy sowed tares among the wheat, and we have done our best to burn the standing crop to mend matters. Yet there to such a thing as doing the right thing at the right time; time and again right times have passed and wrong things have been done, and the reward has been reaped. To Provide Capital for Railway Connection There is sufficient authority for the state-

The original estimate for construction was about £53,000 for the eight miles or so of line, and it is understood that a big firm of London contractors are rear'y to undertake the work. Under present conditions the company, but it is felt that there will be no difficulty in this connection, and that within a short sime the work will be in progress.
