... Lords, commanding the
...House; the Speaker re-
...ed that his Excellency the
...ad given the assent to the

...men bill—bounty on draw-
...ment of the city of Dublin
...he liberty of the subject—
...s—Regulating elections—
...rd Viscount Glerawly's bill

Friday, February 13
...as called over pursuant to or
...faulters ordered to attend to-
...y would be ordered into custo-
...ant at arms, without a suffi-
...ade on oath to the House.
...the Committee for the trial of
...lection, who were sworn, and
...immediately in the committee.

...ll, in a clear and eloquent man-
...to the House an account of the
...malt brought to Dublin yearly,
...to 300,000 barrels, for which
...bounties were paid; that by the
...tions, and authentic papers in his
...consumption in Dublin was only
...reels, so that a bounty was paid
...92,000 barrels more than was con-
...re, by which the revenue was de-
...f above 9000l. yearly; for it was
...here must be fraud somewhere; he
...fore for taking off the bounty on
... and rather giving it to the brewer
...r by way of drawback at so much
...n or so much per cent, and submit-
...matter to the House, or by a se-
...use in the Revenue Bill, or by a se-
...bill, or whatever mode they thought

Henry Cavendish thought it improper
...duce it in the Revenue Bill, but that
...ht be done in the Money Bill, or by a
...r that purpose.

Lucius O'Brien was afraid the Hon.
...leman was mistaken in calculation; he
...300,000 barrels are annually brought to
...lin, and the bounty paid for that quan-
...; but he makes no allowance for what is
...umed for private use; for most gentlemen
...l to Dublin for their malt; he was sensible
...re were frauds committed on the revenue.
... why this monstrous code of laws to pre-
...nt it, (taking up the Revenue bill); he
...is sure half the malt paid no duty; he did
...d always would assist the gentleman in the
...venue Bill whilst they asked only what
...as reasonable; that the measure proposed
...ly seven miles distance would have the
...ame advantage as he who brought his goods
...100 miles distance; we must have the good
...will of our neighbours of Great Britain and
...not put on a duty that we can avoid; it
...would also be partial in another instance, and
...prevent the exportation of spirit from any of
...the country ports.

Mr. Denis Daly thought it an act of
...great importance, as it seemed to him to go
...to every species of corn, and to affect the
...landed interest, and ought therefore to be
...well considered in a full House.

The Attorney General thought it better
...that the village laws, which were of great
...import, should be kept separate by themselves.
...A debate arose upon the new clauses in
...the Revenue Bill relative to the distillery,
...when the Chairman reported some propo-
...sals, and ordered to sit again to-morrow.

...version to the then sitting Members; as the
...Majority, so far as their names could be gone
...into, were ordered into the custody of the
...Serjeant at Arms.

Sir Lucius O'Brien, Mr. Daly, and Mr.
...Fitzgibbon, and other members called the ...attention of the House to the act which coer-
...ced the attendance of Members on the great
...business of the nation. They pointed out, in ...particular, the utility of a law, which made
...it necessary for the representatives of the peo-
...ple, to discharge the obligation of service
...which they owed to those who had sent them
...into Parliament. Sir Lucius O'Brien in par...ticular, said it would have all the effects of a
...tax upon absentees; and by this act, no man
...would, in future, dare to trifle with the ser-
...vice he had undertaken for his constituents.

After reading over a number of Members
...names, some of which were excused from
...sickness; some from necessary absence; and
...some for want of due information, the
...House adjourned.

Friday, February 15.
...Mr. Mason moved the order of the day,
...for going into the Revenue Bill.

Mr. Gardiner opposed it, as the Popery
...Bill was also appointed for this day, previous
...to the order for committing the Revenue
...Bill. This also occasioned a short debate;
...but Mr. Mason honourably withdrew his
...motion, in order for the proper business to
...come on.

Mr. Coughlan presented a petition from
...several distillers in the King's county against
...the clauses in the Revenue Bill; as did John
...Dillon, Esq; from other distillers, which
...were received, and read.

The order of the day was called for and
...read, for the House going into a Committee
...on the Popery Bill.

Mr. Fitzgibbon, on reading the order,
...arose, and declared himself as much a friend
...to the principles of the bill as any man in the
...House:—He was for allowing the Roman
...Catholics the liberty of purchasing, and
...thought they ought to have such liberty;
...but on considering the bill this morning, an
...objection appeared to him which he wished
...to reconcile; but as it had caused such
...doubts, that he hoped such gentlemen as
...were friends to the bill would join him
...against going into a Committee. He was ap-
...prehensive the bill would clash with the act of
...treatment, the act of explanation, and the ...act of re-assumption; and that it might em-
...broider purchasers under the Popery laws, and
...involve great part of the landed property in
...a magazine of confusion.

He thought the best mode of relieving the
...Catholics with safety to the rest of the king-
...dom, was to repeal the act and 8th of Queen
...Anne; that he would not agree to any other
...mode, without gentlemen could point out a
...better. This occasioned a long and warm
...debate of some hours, when it was agreed
...by the House to go into the Committee on
...the bill, and the chairman do report some propo-
...sals, which was done, and the Speaker re-
...tiring, the Committee was or-
...dered to sit again on Wednesday next.

The order of the day was then read, for
...going into the Revenue Bill. A debate en-
...sued against going into it, on account of the
...new clauses relative to the distillery.

The question was put for the Speaker to
...leave the chair, in order to go into the bill.
...A division ensued, when the numbers ap-
...peared.
