DUBLIN, April 23

Monday, April 22.

Read the firſt time the following bills reported from England, and which were ordered to be read a ſecond time to-morrow: The revenue bill; the bill for the encouragement of the linen trade; the bill for the better curing of proviſions and regulating the butter trade; the bill for the more effectual regiſtering of freeholders; the bill for the further relief of the Roman Catholics; the bill for regulating the education of the ſame; the bill for the better regulating of votes in boroughs; the bill to explain the act for pre venting frivolous arreſts; the bill for the relief of Diſſenters; the alnage bill, and ſeve ral other bills.

Mr Rowley ſaid he underſtood the Judges bill had received a material alteration; he moved that the Committee of Comparitions compare the bills with the tranſmiſſes; ordered accordingly.

The Provoſt read and delivered his Grace the L. Lieutenant's anſwer to the addreſs of the Houſe to his Majeſty: viz. "I ſhall immediately tranſmit this very dutiful and loyal addreſs to his Majeſty."

The Right Hon. John O'Neil read and delivered in his Grace's anſwer to the addreſs of the Houſe, which was to the following purport:

I thank the Houſe of Commons for this obliging addreſs, and I am happy to find that my appointment to the Government of this kingdom is ſo very acceptable to them; it will give me the higheſt ſatisfaction if my ad-miniſtration ſhould anſwer their favourable expectations, and promote the proſperity and happineſs of the people of Ireland."

The Speaker from the chair informed the Houſe, that he had received the anſwer of Lord Carliſle to the addreſs of the Houſe (which they had ordered him to tranſmit to his Lordſhip) which he read to the Houſe, and was afterwards read at the table; it was to the following effect.

"Sir,

"I have received your letter communicating a vote of the Houſe of Common's acknowledging in terms highly flattering to me the uniform and unremitted attention with which I endeavoured during my Adminiſtra tion, to promote the welfare of this kingdom: I requeſt you to offer to that Houſe, where you ſo worthily preſide, my moſt ſincere thanks for this mark of national approbation: it is with cordial pleaſure that I ſhall ever reflect on the fortunate combination of circum-ſtances, if by them I have been enabled to promote the commercial intereſts of the formation on oath againſt Capt. querſon, before the Houſe.

The Secretary of State replied, that the laſt Adminiſtration had given a ſatisfactory anſwer in his opinion, to this buſineſs, when the Hon Gentleman had brought it before the Houſe) that he did not riſe to oppoſe the motion, but the preſent Adminiſtration were uninformed of the matter, and he with-ed the motion to be withdrawn.

Mr. Crofton withdrew the motion for the preſent.

Mr. Fitzgibbon moved for an enquiry into the ſtate of the road from Tomevaragh to Silvermines.

Mr. Ogle and Mr. Grattan hoped no Gentleman would now think of bringing in any matters of a public nature, ſo late in the ſeſſions.

Mr. Fitzgibbon ſaid a Committee of the ſame nature had been appointed the moment before, and hoped this meaſure would not be refuſed. The Committee was appointed Cork, April 22. Laſt Saturday Jere. Sullivan, was executed at Gallows green purſuant to his ſentence at the laſt aſſizes. Being a Gentleman's ſervant, he was intruſted to convey a young lady from his Maſter's to a boarding ſchool, but inſtead of diſcharging the truſt repoſed in him, he (with an accom plice not yet taken) by force obliged her to go on the Mardyke, where ſhe was reſcued by a Gentleman, accidentally paſſing at that time.

It not a little remarkable, that a young man of the ſame name, was executed that day 18 years, for forcibly carrying away a young Lady, and no other perſon ſuffered in the intermediate time on that law called the Ingolſby act, but themſelves in the city or county of Cork

GENTLEMEN,

HAVING received a Letter from Colonel THOMAS SMYTH (Chairman to that meeting) dated the 19th inſt. Signifying his having waited on Lord CHARLEMONT, agreeable to a part of the Reſolutions entered into on that Day.
In conſequence of which, the Expediency of a Second Meeting of Delegates ariſes, and is hereby Submitted in order to take into their Conſideration his Lordſhip's anſwer, particularly notified in Colonel SMYTH's Letter.—That his Lordſhip feels the deepeſt Concern imaginable, to find that his Poſitive engagements in the North, would not permit Him to embrace the high Honor we intended Him, it being totally out of His power to get to Limerick on the 15th of Auguſt next; but that ſhould it be thought proper to Poſtpone the REVIEW to a ſubſequent Day, (for a Week longer) in that caſe his Lordſhip would have it in his power to go down to Limerick."

In obedience thereſore to the particular Deſire and Requeſt of Colonel SMYTH, I have the Honor of Communicating to the diſtarent Corps concerned, (in the moſt eligible manner I am capable of,) Lord CHARLEMONT's Anſwer, and at the ſame time, with great deference, think it highly expedient and conſiſtent with my duty and attention to your SERVICE, to Propoſe a Meeting of Delegates, relatively at Limerick, on Monday the 15th Day of May next, at Twelve o'Clock, at the Exchange.

I have the Honor to remain,
GENTLEMEN,
With the higheſt Reſpect,
Your very Faithful Humble Servant, THOS. BURGESS, Brevet Lt. Col.
And Major to the L. L. V.
Exerciſing Officer for the Cavalry, &c. &c.

Limerick, 25th April, 1782.

JOHN BIRCH,

BEGS Leave to inform the Publick, that he has taken the Yellow Houſe, and Concerns on the North Strand, lately held by Captain Taylor, which he has fitted up in the neateſt manner for carrying on the Tea Buſineſs, the Garden is beautifully laid out in the Chineſe Taſte, and a Dancing Room added thereto. The whole will be open for the Reception of the Publick, on the firſt Day of May next.

Limerick, April 25.

JOHN JOHNSTON, begs leave to inform his Friends and the Publick, that his GARDENS are Open as uſual, for the Reception of Com-ny, altho it has been reported by ſome evil-minded People, that he would follow Publick Buſi-neſs, and not the Tea, this he aſſures the Publick is void of Truth, as he is determined to exert himſelf in giving univerſal Satisfaction.

He ſolicits his Friends and the Publick for a
