A letter from Paris has the following article:

"The loss we have sustained in the West Indian will be long repairing, as we are informed that four more ships of the line are broken and destroyed, which had put into Curacao after the engagement, being obliged to make the first port they could get into, to avoid the storm. Our Ministry may pretend to great things, but I am certain they would be glad of a peace almost on any terms."

D U B L I N , July 27.

By account this day in town from Belfast, we find that on Mr. Flood's arrival there on Monday night, he was received by the Belfast Volunteer Company with presented arms, and with every other honourable instance of respect that could be possibly shewn the ablest and bravest friend of his country. They immediately afterwards assembled and unanimously elected him their Delegate, and Mr. Flood appeared on Tuesday at the Review dressed in the uniform of the Belfast Volunteer Company.

We have good authority to assure our readers, that all the further changes in the law department mentioned with confidence some time ago, will positively be declared in the course of this month, as the necessary arrangements have already taken place, both here, and on the other side of the water.

Through the English papers still announce the appointment of Earl Temple to the chief Government of this kingdom, yet as it has not yet been notified in the London Gazette and as an entire silence on that head is observed at the Castle, we flatter ourselves the departure of our excellent chief Governor the Duke of Portland, at least for some time is a doubtful matter; and every true friend to Great Britain and Ireland sincere wishes that event may not take place until the rights of this kingdom shall be irrevocably established.

We hear that Mr. Davis father of the bar. and the rest of the committee of twenty, who had proposed to erect a statue of Mr. Gratitan, are now so thoroughly ashamed of the measure and of their want of foresight, that they have it in contemplation to call another meeting, for the avowed purpose of expunging the same vote from their journals.

Excepting the brush which Admiral Keppel had with the French fleet in 1779, the English, French, and Spanish navy seem principally to be employed at home, for several years past, in making useless parades up and down Channel, a conduct so notorious as must appear extraordinarily absurd to neutral powers. The English, indeed, from their very considerable naval force on foreign service, cannot be expected at home to act more than on the defensive; but the great superiority in ships of the line of the combined forces must render their plan of simple garrisoning a theme of ridicule through the world.

The Volunteer Corps named the Irish Brigade, have elected for their Chaplains, the Rev. Wm. Day, Fellow of Trinity College, and the Rev. A. O'Leary, a Romish regular.

Yesterday at a meeting of the masters and wardens of the several guilds of this city, convened at the Tholsel by the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, it was determined to parliament the franchises on the 19th of this month.

This day the drawing of the lottery ended when No. 24,462, was drawn a prize of 100

Extract of a letter from Edinburgh, July 24.

"This day, came on the election of one of the fifteen Peers of Scotland, in the room of the Earl of Lennox, deceased. The candidates were the Earls of Buchan and Lauderdale. At the close of the election there appeared.

For Earl Lauderdale 13 votes.

For Earl Buchan 12 votes. present weakness of his right, and was received with every honor due to his rank, and conducted to the house of John Martin, Esq; head quarters, amidst the applause of a delighted public.

Yesterday morning, agreeable to the orders which had been given by Gen. King, at ten o'clock the different corps of cavalry paraded in Wine-street, and those of the infantry in Knox's street, Ratcliff street, Castle-street, &c. &c. and about eleven marched from thence to the review ground at Scards, about two miles from town. About half past twelve the whole were in the field, and drawn up in regiments, and the line so judiciously formed, as proved the highest military skil in the Exercising Officer, Adjutant Ormsby, who prepared the plan. At two, the approach of the General was announced, who was escorted to and from the field by the Leitrim Rangers and County Sligo Light Horse, attended by Captains Stewart and Jones, as Aids de Camp. The General being received with the usual honours, took post in the front of the line, and the troops performed the several manœuvres contained in the plan, with the utmost promptitude and exactness, and to the entire satisfaction of the General, and the nobility and gentry present.

The day was gloriously fine the ground beautifully situated, the springs brisk and regular, & the manœuvring elegant, all combined to convey pleasure. The cavalry and light infantry took part, by skirmishing on the flanks in front, & covering the retreat of the two armies, the appearance of which was truly grand, and exhibited a most glorious spectacle to surrounding multitudes of admiring spectators, among whom was the General's lady, and several other persons of distinction and consequence.

Nothing could exceed the beauty of the sham battle, where the troops were drawn up in two armies, disputing the field with equal skill and obstinacy, till at length one army retreated by a rapid charge from the adversary, and being closely pursued were made prisoners. In this the cavalry and light infantry of both armies were remarkably active.

In short, the whole was conducted with such address and propriety, as reflect the highest honour on both Officers and men, and the general returned his particular thanks to every corps in the field. Colonel O'Hara acted as Brigadier General, and Lieut. Col.
Ormsby and Col. Cullen as Colonels of regiments. The lines were kept by drafts from different corps of horse and foot, and the number reviewed, amounted as nearly as we can ascertain, to one thousand four hundred and thirty, exclusive of those that kept the lines; the whole about 15,000, composed of corps from the counties of Mayo, Leitrim, Roscommon and Sligo.

On Friday last, about 12 o'clock, General King and his suite, escorted by the Leitrim Rangers, and county Sligo Light Horse, marched out of town.

Cork, August 1. This day six sail of the line and three frigates appeared off our harbour, on their way to join Lord Howe's fleet, which they expect to fall in with near Cape Clear. They bring the agreeable news of the safe arrival of Sir Peter Parker, and that part of the Jamaica fleet which proceeded under his convoy for the English Channel.
They also report, that they expect to be joined this day by another ship of the line for Lord Howe's fleet.

The following Letter, written by the Right Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick to the Provost, has been transmitted by that Gentleman to the Mayor.

S I R , Dublin Castle, July 22, 1782.

Being informed from many quarters that the misrepresentations so generally circulated relative to the supposed introduction of a bill into the House of Lords in England, declaring the right of the British Parliament to bind Ireland in matters of external Legislation, have created much uneasiness in many parts of the kingdom, and particularly among your respectable Constituents, I must intreat your good offices in settling right a matter, the misconception of which, may so materially injure the publick's vice, by disturbing that harmony which, I trust, finally and finally established between the two kingdoms. The interruption of which, cannot but be highly detrimental to the publick's happiness, and tranquillity. The report of the above mentioned bill, has been exaggerated to the highest point, and is to be referred to the Bill itself, and the report of the Lord's Committee, which were collected.

matter rightly understood, will cease to be an object of uneasiness to the publick, naturally, and most commendably jealous where they conceive their acknowledged right exposed to danger, and I am confident, that the anxiety of Ireland upon this occasion, may be more justly imputed to a laudable and zealous attachment to those rights, than to any forward disposition of harboring ill-grounded doubts of the honour and good faith of Britain.

I have the honour to be, Sir, with great respect, your most obedient humble Servt,

RICHARD FITZPATRICK.

The Right Hon. the Provost of Trinity College.
