L O N D O N, Jan. 8.

The French fleets from Europe to Martinico have so frequently escaped the British cruisers during the war, that they have pointed out to Admiral Pigot the latitudes in which they are now almost certain to be met with.

According to the Spanish accounts, if war should continue another year, they will keep a good land force before Gibraltar of 6 or 7000 men, to annoy and distress the garrison; but that the principal part of their fleet will be employed in the West Indies, reserving only ten or twelve sail in Europe, for the protection of their home trade.

The Languedoc, a French privateer of 20 guns, fitted out by some merchants, was taken off Rhode Island by two of Lord Hood's cruisers and carried into New York. She had on board some cloathing for the French troops at Rhode Island.

Extract of a Letter from Rotterdam, Dec. 26.

"There are building here one ship of 76, one of 68, three of 60, one of 54, and one of 40 guns; but it is impossible to say now when they will be finished, as there is no prospect of getting sufficient hands for the purpose, all the artificers in Europe being now employed. It is talked that the India Company's yard at Batavia will be reduced, and the workmen ordered home; but this must take time, before which, it is probable peace may take place."

both pursued. Another without door or in James Wallace, happened within a few years, when he was challenged by a Gentleman who had the gout and could not stand; they therefore agreed to fire over the table, as they sat in their chairs; the Gentleman fired, and missed Sir James; and he, in return, called him an old fool, and fired his pistol through the window. In America, Sir James, when he was young, was engaged in a variety of quarrels and fought several duels, all of the desperate kind.

Extract of a letter from Colinsburg, in Fife, Dec. 26.

"Betwixt twelve and one o'clock this morning, a dreadful fire broke out in the Mason-House of Kilbrackmont, which reduced it to ashes. The house was inhabited by four poor families two of which had six children each; and another consisted of one widow woman and two young children. They were all asleep when the fire began, and with great difficulty escaped naked into the fields with their lives, but stripped of their all. An old man who lived in one of the rooms, and who gave the first alarm, unfortunately perished in the flames upon returning to his room for his clothes."
