Tuesday, March 11.

The House in a Committee on the American Interchange Bill, read a second time, and made various alterations in the same.

DUBLIN, March 18.

Yesterday being the festival of St. Patrick, tutelary Saint of Ireland, and the day appointed for the installation of the newly created Knights of the SHAMROCK, at 6 in the morning the Volunteer Corps of the County and City of Dublin, paraded at the Royal Exchange, and ballotted for the guards which were to be stationed in the cathedral; after which they proceeded to Dawson-street, to receive instructions from the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, appointed Commanding Officer of the day, and from thence marched to the cathedral, the avenue to which, from the middle of Bride-street, was strongly lined, and were there joined by the troops in garrison, who also lined the remaining streets to the Castle. Guards of horse and foot were stationed at the different avenues leading into the streets through which the procession moved, which prevented carriages passing, and the populace from being too pressing, and by which judicious arrangement, the procession met with not the least obstruction.

The cavalcade left the Castle between 10 and 11 o'clock, in the following order: A large detachment of dragoons, state trumpets, battle ax-guards, sword of state, Sovereign's Esqrs. Archbishop of Dublin, Prelate of the order, the Lord Lieutenant as Grand Master, Lord Muskerry, as proxy for his Royal Highness Prince Edward, the Duke of Leinster, the Earls of Clanricarde, Westmeath, Inchiquin, Shannon, Clantraill, Mornington, Courtown, Arran, Charlemont, and Beilive—the Earl of Ely, the remaining Knight, being out of the kingdom, his investiture and installation could not take place. Each Knight had three Esquires, who attended him in his carriage. In going to the church, the Knights were in their furcoat only, with their caps in their hands; but in their procession back after they were installed, they were dressed in the full mantle, habit and, and collar of the order.—The dresses of the whole were very rich and magnificent. The procession returned to the Castle a little after two o'clock, and the Knights appeared at the windows to gratify the spectators.

The installation of the Knights yesterday, was conducted with the greatest propriety and regularity,—not a single mistake occurred from the time of their arrival at the Choir till they returned to the Chapter House.—The effect of the ceremony viewed from the Galleries was amazingly splendid. The remainder of the procession was conducted in the same manner as inserted in our last.

Three troops of Volunteer horse were drawn up in Patrick's Close during the installation.

Gardiner's horse dismounted, did duty in the Choir; and were placed as guards at the altar and entrance.

The Rank of Knights of the Bath is below that of Baronets. The Rank of Knights of St. Patrick is next to the Sons of Barons.—What then could Lord Antrim mean, when he preferred an inferior order in England to a superior one in Ireland? Does he suppose that honour is not honor in his own Country? And if he were a Commoner, would he actually rather come in tail of every Baronet of England than rank after the Peers of Ireland.

Cork, March 17. This day a number of Volunteers of the different Corps of this city attended at the Chapel of the Rev. Mr. O'Leary, Chaplain to the Irish Brigade, where this German, so distinguished for his philanthropy of sentiment, preached an excellent sermon suitable to the day, and highly expressive of the merits of our patron Saint. The ingenious Eulogist, with peculiar elegance of address, directed then his encomiums to the sons of St. Patrick, our honoured Volunteers. His happy imagination failed not to discover the affinity between him who rescued our island from the darkness of ignorance and idolatry, and those whose glorious exertions liberated us from the claims of arrogance and shackles of despotism. We know not which demands most our admiration, the manly eloquence and genius of the Preacher, or the liberality of sentiment which pervaded his auditory; both certainly deserved the highest commendation, as proofs that we are happily arising at the same time from fetters equally oppressive—those of slavery and prejudice. The general perseverance, with a happy concurrence of events, have expelled the former, whilst the unanimity which appeared in the pursuit of this great object, produced an effect no less advantageous, that of making us not only a free, but an united people.

This being the anniversary of the Cork Cavalry, they, accompanied by the Union, and Cork Artillery, met at the Review-Field, on Monday, where they went through their exercises, and were reviewed by the Citizens of Geneva, arrived in this City.

Tuesday last the body of a sailor who some time ago fell out of a vessel, and was unfortunately drowned, was taken up near the Ring-tower slip.

Ennis, March 19. Monday the Ennis Volunteers had a grand field day, when they went through the manoeuvres and firings with the greatest exactness and steadiness: After their return from the field they fired three volleys in honor of the day.

LIMERICK.

Extract of a letter from Kilkenny, March 18.

“Yesterday arrived in this city, Colonel Talbot with five Companies of his Fencibles: In the evening a guard was placed at the Colonel's quarters, who were knocked down and their muskets broke, and the affrighted Centinel informed, that his Colonel would be used in like manner: At night the Drums who were beating the retreat, accompanied by a Corporal's guard, were knocked down, their muskets broke, the drums cut in pieces, and the party narrowly escaped with their lives into the barracks, where the Centinels who were there placed, were used in like manner. In short, I believe the Colonel and his Corps must make a precipitate retreat, as they are the derision of all ranks, and have been refused billets for one night only. It is feared this night will produce a repetition of the like treatment.”

The Rev. Deane Hoare received from the Mayor, on Saturday last, 4 two-penny loaves and 9 penny bricks of bread; and from Mr. Francis Ruffel, yesterday, 13 penny-bricks of bread, for the poor of St. Mary's Parish.
