the cessation of hostilities had given time for consideration of them.

the same accounts add, that the Congress olved on distributing several allotments aste land, at the back of their principal ments, to such Loyalists as not lying un-any immediate procription, would accept and take the oaths to the new Government. It is intended that these people l serve as a barrier between the present deserters and the Indians.

According to accounts from Paris, a confidential reduction of the land-forces was a measure resolved upon, but it was determined to keep up the marine, and to make several necessary regulations in that department.
