DIED. On Tuesday morning last, in Queen-street, Mrs. Anne Cole, Wife of Arthur Cole, Esq; a lady possessed of every charm in mind and person, and most sincerely lamented by all who had the pleasure of their acquaintance.
Cork, Feb. 9. On the night of the 1st inst. an highway robbery was committed on John Dwyer; he the next morning having called on Mr. Rowland Sharp, Peace-Officer of this city, who went in search of the robbers, and in an house in Lavitt's-lane, apprehended two men, one who calls himself Thomas Donogan, soldier of the 39th regiment of foot, and Owen Daly, Hosier, and carried them before Alderman John Travers, who committed them to Goal for said robbery; and on the way thither a pocket-book, of which the said Dwyer was robbed the night before, was found in the pocket of the said Owen Daly.
Early this morning the body of one Brien a hatter, was found in Bandon-Road, stripped to every covering but the small-cloaths. He is supposed to have been murdered, and two Ladies of easy virtue were this morning apprehended on suspicion of being concerned therein.
Married At the French Church yesterday, Mr. Charles Christian of the city of Limerick, Merchant, to Miss Amelia Knolles, of Kill-high in this county, Esq.
LIMERICK.
Last Friday night, about 12 o'clock, a gang of villains who make frequent depredations on the ships and boats at the Quays, stole about 40 shillings worth of herrings out of said boats, Tim M'Inerney, of the party, was taken in the fact by one of the boatmen, but was soon rescued by his accomplices, he being recognized on Saturday morning, was again taken and lodged in gaol by Mr. John O'Brien, High Constable, who also apprehended and lodged in gaol, yesterday evening, Darby Geeran, a cadet servant, charged with burglariously breaking open the dwelling house of Mrs Annette, in Bow Lane, about two o'clock yesterday morning, and stealing thereout, a silver three half pint cup, with other articles which were found by Mr. O'Brien, where said Geeran had concealed them.
Married. Last Thursday, Mr. William O'Brien, merchant, to Miss White, daughter to the late Mr. William White John, merchant, a most agreeable young Lady with a fortune of 1500l.—Yesterday, Mr. John Taylor, brewer, to Miss White, daughter to the late Mr. William White William, linen draper, a very amiable young Lady, possessed of every qualification to render the marriage state happy.
Port-News, Feb. 13. Sailed, the Kerry Lass, M'Kerdy, London, beef, and pork.
Died. Last Friday, at Cratloe in the 19th year of his age, Edward O'Brien, esq; eldest son to Donough O'Brien, esq. High Sheriff of the county Clare; a young gentleman possessed of amiable manners, and a most promising disposition, which renders his death a most afflicting and severe loss to his family and friends in general.
