

among a tumultuous meeting of persons styling themselves Right Boys

Extract of a letter from Clonmel, August 27.
"The White Boys have been handled this day by the army in a manner they did not expect. Early this morning they were assembling at Rosegreen, about two miles from Cashel, in order to go to Cashel, to impose their unlawful oaths on the inhabitants. Their intention being known, it was determined they should be opposed on their first assembling. Accordingly a Mr. Hare a minister and magistrate of that city, called out the army, about 30 in number, repaired to the place they were assembling at, and found from 4 to 500 of them collected.—What passed between the parties on their meeting I have not learned, but the army were soon ordered to fire, and three of the White Boys were killed on the spot, and several wounded; on the first fire they dispersed."

Last Sunday eighteen of the Right Boys were apprehended in Thomastown, by Lord Clifden and Mr. Langrishe, assisted by a party of light horse, and committed to Kilkenny gaol, escorted by a detachment of the 4th horse.

Same day a considerable number of the right Boys were assembled in the barony of Ida, in the county of Kilkenny, and swore the inhabitants.

On the 13th instant died, at Carrick-on-Suir Mrs. Richardson, wife of Mr. John Richardson, of Fethard, revenue officer.

Cork, Aug. 28. Friday morning last about 2 o'clock, nine men on horseback, disguised only by slouched hats, came to the house of Mr. Thomas Donovan, Tythe Proctor, of Rockhill, midway between Blarney and Mallow, who being in bed made him arise on pretence of going with him to his brother, who is also a Tythe Proctor, to adjust some difference relative to their mode of agreement for Tythes, when after their arrival there and intending to take his brother also with them, which they would probably have done, were it not that they had humanity enough to desist from their purpose, on account of his wife's being in child bed; but they took said Thomas on a horse and conveyed him near the Chapel of Blarney, and there plunged him into a hole provided for the horrid purpose and buried him up to chin, where he remained until 10 o'clock, being about six hours, threatening death and destruction to any person who should liberate him before 12 o'clock that day; but by the resolution and public spirit of Mr. Charles Sullivan, of Blarney-lane, he resolutely without any assistants freed him from his horrid imprisonment and conveyed him safe to his house.

We hear from Mallow, that on Friday last the Mallow Independent Volunteers, commanded by Col. John Longfield, having had private information that the White Boys intended to attack some individuals in that town, they immediately assembled, and have since kept up a regular guard. If every other Volunteer Corps in this part of the country, were to follow so laudable an example, it is presumed there would not be the number of outrages committed by these deluded miscreants, that we have daily accounts of from the different parts of the country.

LIMERICK.

Saturday the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Killaloe, arrived at his Lordship's Palace in Killaloe.

Extract of a letter from Kilrush, Aug. 21.
"Sunday, those deluded miscreants called White or Wrong Boys, assembled at Kilrush, in order to swear the inhabitants to pay no Tythes whatever, or Church rates; immediately after service, the Rev. Mr. Irwin Whitty found one of those fellows administering the oaths, upon which he immediately seized him, and with very great difficulty Mr. Whitty dispersed them, after detaining the person who had the impudence to swear his Congregation; Mr. Samuel Jackson who was the Proctor or viewer of Mr. Whitty's tythes assisted him; but such was the inveterate rancour of these people, that they went that night in search of Mr. Jackson, and not finding him at home, they vented their malice on two fine mares of said Jackson's, and cut off their ears close to their heads.—We hear that Mr. Whitty has wrote to Government for a troop of Light Horse, to keep down these rebellious insurgents; too much praise cannot be given to Mr. Whitty for his exemplary conduct as a Clergyman and his activity as a Magistrate;—it were much to be wished, that the sleeping magistrates would awake, and follow so laudable a pattern."
