COUNTRY NEWS.

Belfast, Dec. 19. The brig Lord Kilwarlin, Capt. Smith, from this port to Alicante, which sailed some time ago, is put back here, with the loss of her main top-mast and 2 boys. The Lord Chief Baron Yelverton, is hourly expected in this town.
On Friday last arrived in our Lough, a smuggling sloop called the Two Brothers of Guernsey, laden with 40,000lb. weight of leaf tobacco, and 180 anker casks of strong French brandy; prize to the Royal George revenue cutter, Captain Crauford, from Scotland.
By a gentleman arrived here from Glasgow, we hear of the arrival there of two vessels last week from New York—by the papers brought by them and private letters from thence it appears, nothing but anarchy and confusion reign in the New England States, and that they are on the eve of another revolution.

C O R K, Dec. 21.

On Tuesday the 12th instant Mr. W. B. Swan, Inspector of Excise, assisted by Mr. Henry, Supernumerary Gauger, detected two extensive private distilleries in Mitchellstown, and spilled a considerable quantity of pot ale in each. Before Mr. Swan could procure proper assistance to secure the stills, they were removed, but on application to Lord Kingsborough, his Lordship immediately lent his Agent Mr. Frith, with a party of his servants in arms, to make search for the stills, and one of them we hear was recovered and lodged in the Castle. It were much to be wished that every Nobleman and Gentleman in the kingdom, would imitate the example shewn by his Lordship on this occasion, and support the Officers of the Revenue in the suppression of private distilleries, by which means the fair trader would be protected, the revenue increased, and the morals and health of the lower order of the people essentially served. These distilleries, make up no less a number than seven, detected within a few weeks by the above spirited conduct of Mr. Swan.

Tuesday night Daniel Mahony, an honest industrious feller, fell from a boat where he was loading beef, and was unfortunately drowned. He has left a wife and three infants in the greatest indigence.

Same night a servant girl, belonging to a Gentleman at Cross's-green, threw herself into the river at Wandersford-bridge, after declaring to a man who stood near her, that she was perfectly innocent of a theft she was charged with. The man leaped into a boat to save her, and it is said she pushed it off from her.

Kilkenny, Dec. 20. Early yesterday morning, a number of men surrounded the house of Mr. Oliver Leonard, of Ballicannon, about six miles from this city, with intent, as is supposed, to murder him; but being well provided with fire arms, he gave them a warm reception, whereby one John Bourke was killed on the spot, and another man dangerously wounded, on which they retreated, after having first set fire to his house and fired upwards of fifty shots into it, whereby Mr. Leonard and his wife were desperately wounded. The cool collected courage of Mr. L. who defended himself singly against such a number of armed midnight ruffians, is spoken of in terms of the highest applause.

Clonmel, Dec. 21. Committed to our County Jail, by Nathaniel Mitchel, Esq;—James Kelly, charged (by Information, sworn before Nep. Blood, Esq; a justice of the co. Clare) with stealing four Cows, from the Lands of Mount Rice, in said County, the property of James O'Sullivan, Esq; of the City of Limerick, Merchant.—By Samuel Cooper, Esq;—Patrick Kervan, John Meagher, and Timothy Tierney, all of Killandigan, in this County, farmers, charged on oath, with feloniously counterfeiting and uttering three Receipts for Money, with intent to defraud Mrs. Mary Dawson, and the Rev. Tho. Sheppard, of 45l. os. 1d. knowing the same to be counterfeited.

We hear from Urlingford, that a poor man who unfortunately dealt in Tythes, was visited by the Right Boys, who cut off one his ears; he was then endeavouring to escape, when they pursued him, forced him to lay his head on a block and beheaded him with a hatchet.

A correspondent, who is not a native of Ireland, has been of late much pleased in observing that the humanity for which this country has been long distinguished, so far from being on the decline, seems to increase in proportion to the miseries which invite an exercise of the divine principle. He was led to this observation by noticing in this paper, an offering of gratitude from the tenants of one Gentleman who had forgiven them their last September rent, which brought to his recollection many other instances of a benevolent nature, performed by individuals and large bodies of the well-disposed of this land. The exertions made in Ireland in 1780, for the relief of the sufferers by the hurricane in the West Indies; the liberal subscriptions to supply the poor with provisions in 1783 and 1784, when the severity of the season prevented manufacturers and labourers from earning a maintenance for their families in their professions; the bountiful contributions at charity sermons (which are not exceeded in the most opulent countries) for the support of infirm age or the protection of orphan youth; together with the many institutions for the relief of the distressed of all ages and conditions, from the deserted infant to the hoary head of penury; all inspire to give our correspondent an high veneration for the sympathizing disposition which has and still continues to manifest itself whenever the solicitations of necessity appear in this country:—Indeed, humanity is not capable of receiving a greater degree of enjoyment from any one consideration, than from that of administering consolation to the souls and daughters of affliction. St. Paul's advice to the Corinthians is strong and clear upon this head, "To do good, and to communicate as ye have opportunity; for with such sacrifices ye are well pleased."—The season has lately been mild; but the frost has now set in with some severity, and may continue or increase so as to expose the poor to the bitter pangs of hunger and cold; it is therefore hoped, that those who are blessed with the good things of this life, will consider the sufferings of the poor, and needy, and administer to their necessities:—and "Blessed are they whom, when the Lord cometh, he shall find doing."

It is no wonder the Commissioners should be divided in opinion about the site of a new Prison, as it is a matter of great consequence to the Public, as well as to the unfortunate confined there. The old Bishop's garden is to be cleared, and other places are talked of, but one deserves consideration more than the walled ground at East-water-gate, the many advantages of which are pointed out by our correspondent Humanus, and shall appear in our next.

The poor Room-keepers of St. Munchin's parish return the Lord Bishop of Limerick thanks for their Beef and Christmas Loaf. Rev. Doctor Maunfell acknowledges to have received from the Lord Bishop of Limerick, one large fat Beever and one hundred twelve penny Loaves, to be distributed amongst the poor Housekeepers in the Parishes of St. John and St. Michael's, which were distributed according to his Lordship's intention and directions.
