A Privy Council is to be fummonod for Wednefday or Thursday next, when the cale of the Rev. Mr. Fay, and of Mrs. Lewellin, will be finally taken into confideration.

The fulpention of the fentence, allotted for execution last Saturday, on the unfortunate Fay, and Lewellyn, is in all probability, a measure introductory to their pardon. The various and contradictory accounts, that have been agitated, fince the trials of those unhappy persons, must have created in their minds, degrees of horror and anxiety, hope and delpair -infinitely more painful than the ftroke of death .- Indeed pardon in the prefent inflance, though the wish of humanity, can !carcely be confidered a hoon-where the lots of character -the feverity of long imprisonment-the horror of feelings .- The ignominy of condemngtion, and the amicipation of death-have combined in fuch aronement for the guilt of their crimes .- That Juftice cries-ENOUGH!
