

A Privy Council is to be summoned for Wednesday or Thursday next, when the case of the Rev. Mr. Fay, and of Mrs. Lewellin, will be finally taken into consideration.

The suspension of the sentence, allotted for execution last Saturday, on the unfortunate Fay, and Lewellin, is in all probability, a measure introductory to their pardon. The various and contradictory accounts, that have been agitated, since the trials of those unhappy persons, must have created in their minds, degrees of horror and anxiety, hope and despair—infinitely more painful than the stroke of death.—Indeed pardon in the present instance, though the wish of humanity, can scarcely be considered a boon—where the loss of character—the severity of long imprisonment—the horror of feelings.—The ignominy of condemnation, and the anticipation of death—have combined in such atonement for the guilt of their crimes.—That Justice cries—ENOUGH!

DIED. At Derry, Mr. Robert Holland, merchant.—Also, in the 89th year of her age, Mrs. Mary Hodgan.—At his house in Great Britain Street, the Rev. Doctor Hopkins, for above 30 years, Minister of St. George's.—Near Macroom, co. LIMERICK.

* THE unavoidable delay of the Carriers, or some other disappointment, has prevented Stamp Newspaper from arriving at the Stamp Office in this City, which has occasioned our Printing this Day on Unstamp Paper, the Duty of which shall be accounted for with the Stamp Officer.

Last Sunday evening, the following melancholy accident happened, which ought to caution parents what they give infants to play with:—An only daughter of a shop-keeper in Munget-street, got a bit of a pipe to play with, which she put in her mouth, and accidentally it got into her gullet and worked thro' her neck;—and though every assistance was given, she died in a few hours.

On Sunday the 2d inst, died, at his seat in Gloucestershire, (England) the Rev. Richard Rice, Rector of Quenington, in Gloucestershire, who was possessed of several estates in this city and county.

Married, Last Tuesday at Cahirmary Church, by the Rev. Thomas Shepherd; Counsellor Henry D'Elherre, of Rossmanaher, in the Co. of Clare, to Miss Vereker, daughter to Thomas Vereker, of Roxbro' Esq; a most accomplished young lady, possessing every amiable quality to insure a permanency of matrimonial happiness.—Last week at Southampton, (England) Charles Smith, Esq; of this City, Barrister, to Miss St. Hill, with a considerable fortune.

Died, Last Monday evening, Mr. Nicholas Lysight, Apothecary; a young man much regretted by all who knew him.
