

mountains of Morne, between Drogheda and Carlingford, besides Sleevegullen, and other hills in the counties of Armagh and Down, are as white as any of the Pyrenees or Alps, by a late heavy fall of snow on Sunday and Monday last.

The astonishing drought of the weather, at this season of the year, is likely to be very injurious to the seed corn in the ground; the earth is so parched, that the wheat cannot spring, and will be in a very weak situation to resist the winter's frosts. manufactures are also very much injured by the want of water; the paper-mills near the town are scarcely able to work, and the reservoirs, at the different cotton-mills Malahide and Balbriggan, are almost dried being supplied only from little brooks that do not exist for any time without rain.

Cork, Dec. 1. Last Thursday night the Prize, Casey, of and to this port from Jersey, in ballast, was drove from her moorings at Castletown, in a violent storm and wrecked to pieces, the Capt. and seven men were providentially saved; but five of the crew perished in the wreck.

Last night Thomas Marcell, journeyman cooper, with an infant child in his arms, missed his way owing to the darkness of the night, and fell into the Pointe-Quay dock, and both unfortunately perished.

Last Saturday night a number of riotous and disorderly persons were taken out of different houses, and lodged in Bridewell, by Mr. Alexander High Constable.

Married Yesterday, Mr. Gerard Gallivan, of this city, merchant, to Miss Condron, daughter to the late Hatton Condron, Esq.

The Limerick Chronicle.

LIMERICK.

Last Saturday a Sloop was wrecked at Bonmahon, in the co. Waterford, and all the crew were saved; from some papers found in a pocket of the Sloop, it is believed she was drove on shore, it is believed she was drove from Limerick to a port in England.

Last Saturday night, a Cabin near Shallee was burned down, the owner a poor man, was severely scorched, and a girl entirely consumed. This melancholy accident was occasioned by drying flax.

The 22d ult. at Birr, Roger Finch, aged 88 years; a gentleman, who from his amiable manners, was respected and beloved by a numerous and polite acquaintance. He died Tuesday, on Charlotte's Quay, Mrs. Finch, widow of Mr. Mathew Cianchy: she was a most affectionate parent, a generous benefactress to her poor neighbours, whose death was justly and deservedly regretted by her acquaintance.

Le Soleil a Minuit,
OR PARIS LUMINARY.

A Philosophical invention for procuring instantaneous Light and Fire—unknown to the Antients,—is one of the most useful Discoveries the present Age can boast. It may be justly called the friendly VANDER MACUM of every Person from the Peasantry to the Peasant. It is essentially serviceable in the dreary Hours of Midnight Darkness—in cases of attack—sudden illness—Robbers, and every species of devastation practised on the honest part of Mankind.—In fine, its use are so various, that to state them severally, would swell beyond the usual limits of an Advertisement. Let but the Philosopher—the Student—the Physician—the Parent—all Heads of Families—let every one whose Health or Safety is dear to him—in a Word, let all those who in the uncertain chances of human affairs may have instant occasion for Light, consider for a moment what a source of content and satisfaction it must be to reflect that they have it at command—without any apprehension or even probability of the danger that inevitably attends continued Fires—or lighted Candles—and they will not hesitate to pronounce it the most useful, well as the most elegant Discovery of the Times.
