

fit, or have place at the side of the Estate in the Parliament Chamber; certain great officers therein named, precedence above all Dukes, except as shall happen to be the King's son, uncle, nephew, &c. &c. circumstance of the Prince de Conde's an officer of his regiment in the field, happy to have in our power to relate in circumstances, since it shows, that when of the blood is in question, the point in France is not pursued to such a in other cases. The Prince in a viotion, gave the officer a blow; the other ; but with his commission, he did not nicest sense of feelings wounded; he Conde every where; and on all oc-public or private, was constantly be-light. The other took the alarm, and nding that he meant to assassinate him, ingly asked him, What were his and what his intentions?—He had to reparation of his injured honour.—“I e it you,” said the Prince—“Follow The swords were drawn and measured; er touched the point of that of his ad-and instantly dropped his own. “My said he, “you have condescended to it is enough—I am satisfied.—The on gave me no longer rankies in my it is fully expiated.”

as immediately received again into the and, under the auspices of the Prince, a very rapid promotion. ional Record.—It is worthy of observation, that none of the Kings of France n succeeded in the Throne by their s, for 130 years. The present King, VI, succeeded his grandfather, Louis XIV, being then five years old.— er then the French are so aggrieved at ne of the Dauphin.

ward is preparing to leave this counthree years tour. One he purposes to Egypt. Should this valuable member live to return, his great work on La-will be enriched with an Appendix, the History of the Plague will make ous figure.

ulty in a point of etiquette puzzles emen of the House of Lords, in re-Prince William's taking his seat — not an instance in the English History Apparent, and two of his brothers, e life of the father, sitting at the od in the House of Peers. The re puzzled, the oldest officers of the ow nothing of the matter, and the re silent. The place of sitting down, is to be determined, but whether on to-morrow, was not fixed when the ke up yesterday.

, a case in the Exchequer upon an before the Barons, argued and con-er had been previously convicted of o breaches in one and the same act ent, passed to prevent frauds in the malt, viz. The throwing out of the o the couch before the barley had nder the water forty hours, as the and then immediately supplying the a fresh barley, and wetting it imme-thout giving first forty-eight hours e officer of the trader's intention so e judgment of the Court was in the confirmed, and the trader fined in penalties of 100l. each. In this raud and injury sustained by the ld only extend to the second wet-h it appeared was meant, in the be trade, to be run) the first having d in the cistern, and thrown out uch; but the Court observed, that d wisely guarded and fenced in the he duties by those provisos of fixing

“I am informed that three transports have been sent from this place since the 20th of March, and that the fleet now on the Danube consists of the following vessels, viz. one frigate of 42 guns; one ditto 24 guns 12 pounders: seven sloops of war, each mounting 18 guns 12 pounders; six gun boats, each three guns, one gun 24 pounder, and two ditto 12 pounders, four floating batteries, each six guns 12 pounders; 32 shikes, each six guns, three pounders, rows 50 oars, and have 80 men; and 20 small galleys. This fleet is intended to assist at the siege of Belgrade; it is to attack one part by water, while the troops cross the Save to attack the town in the rear.
These vessels are all ship-rigged, and built on a flat construction on account of the number of banks going down the river. I saw the place, with all the fleet as they are designed to lay at Semlin, and sadly wanted to get a description of it, but could not obtain my wish, as I was not personally known to Major Williams; though I hear he is an Englishman, and has been only six years in the Imperial marine.

“This morning arrived the agreeable news from Vienna, that his Majesty is a great deal better; at which the people much rejoice, as he bears the character of a brave and good monarch.”

Saturday, about three o'clock in the afternoon, a woman of genteel appearance, a soveigner, attempted to drown herself in the Caanal, St. James's Park, but was prevented by the intervention of a clergyman and other persons present. From what we can learn, the cause of this rash step originated in an unfortunate matrimonial connection. One of those monsters of iniquity, who are always upon the look out to entrap the unwary female, finding that this poor woman possessed a fortune of about 3000l. addressed her, and soon obtained her hand in wedlock. A series of uninterrupted conjugal felicity, accompanied on his side by the fondest endearments, soon enabled him to get into his hands every penny of her fortune: with this he took French leave, and left her to lament her helpless situation without money and without friends.

DUBLIN, JUNE 2.

At six o'clock on Sunday evening a messenger arrived at the Castle, with dispatches for his Excellency the Marquis of Buckingham.

Lieutenant Colonel Lenox, who had the late affair of honour with his Royal Highness the Duke of York, is the son of Lord George Lenox (brother to his Grace the Duke of Richmond) whose bravery was so eminent during the late German war, and who figured particularly at the famous battle of MINDEN, where Lord George Germaine blasted his laurels.

Russian coarse linens are sold at foreign markets on much cheaper terms than those of this kingdom. Their middle price goods have, however, a harshness, that prevents them from being properly stamped, or rendered agreeable for wear. The French coarse linens are deemed preferable to those of any other country, but in their very fine, (termed cambricks, from the province in which they were originally made), the production of their looms are superior to any other part of Europe. In the medium kind Ireland excels, and such fabrics are most likely to prove advantageous to the interests of commerce. The Dutch fabrics are remarkably fine and good, which depends much on the poverty of the soil where the flax is produced, the fibres being more attenuated. Thus we find that the rich grounds of Munster produce less valuable flax than the mountainy or stoney surface of the Northern parts of this kingdom, and that what is termed barren land might, on proper encouragement and exemptions, prove a source of great internal wealth; even the marsh, when partly reclaimed, produces rape or cole and when a fed is found

The congregation at Spring-garden Chapel was on Sunday morning very much alarmed; the Rev. Mr. Pitcairne, soon after he had taken his text, dropt down in a fit of apoplexy. As he was taken out of the chapel, and had immediate assistance, it is hoped he recovered.

DIED. Mrs. Eliza Jocelyn, relict of the late Major Jocelyn, uncle to the Countess of Belvedere.

Cork, June 1. This day the 20th regiment embarked on board his Majesty's ship Hannibal at Cove, to sail for Nova Scotia; and to-morrow the 21st regt. are to embark from Kinsale.

Died, Friday the wife of Mr. Steph. White.

Waterford, June 2. Arrived on Thursday, the Carrieret, with the mail, and Benjamin and William Burton, Esqrs. three horses and their servants, — Maxwell, Esq; Miss Granahan, and Miss Molloy.

The Limerick Chronicle.

LIMERICK.

The 15th regiment will be reviewed next Thursday by General Paterson, at Loughmore.

Last Friday there was a violent shower of hail between Nenagh and Shallee, which destroyed a large field of rape, broke some glass, and did other damage.

Yesterday died in jail, Patrick Neal, who was wounded in an affray with the Cunninghames, near Cahirconlish, as mentioned in our paper the 4th of May.

The Fair of Donags will be held on Monday the 8th of June—Custom Free.

The Rev. Deane Hoare acknowledges the receipt of five guineas from Mrs. Meade, (of Arthur's Quay,) towards compounding the debts of persons confined for small sums.

DIED. Last Friday evening, on the Road between Purt and Abbyeale, John Kiggell, Esq; of Camus, in the County of Limerick — Never did there die a Man more univerally, more sincerely, or more deservedly regretted—Never was there a more striking instance of the uncertainty of this Life, and the vanity of all human enjoyments. He was on his return from the County of Kerry, in perfect health and spirits, had just expressed to his Servant the pleasure he felt at having transacted his business there so much to his satisfaction—probably anticipated in imagination the joy of meeting again his family and friends—when instantaneously deprived of life, he fell motionless from his Horse.—Every method that the greatest skill and prudence could have suggested, was instantly taken to restore him to his afflicted friends and relations—but alas! without effect.

His manners sweet, benevolent his mind, In him was lost a friend to ALL mankind.
A Man, for virtue, probity, and worth, Equall'd by few, excell'd by none on earth;
A better husband woman never obtain'd;
No sonder parent, and no truer friend;
In all respects so faithful, so sincere, He STARS may claim the tribute of a tear.— Yet not for us permit the tear to flow, For him, nor heave the sigh, nor sorrow know, He felt no pain, no terror, or affright,
By INSTANT Death convey'd to Realms of Light, Of Heav'n possess'd, his virtue's sure reward, He now adores his Saviour, God, and Lord.— Let this console the Widow's, Orphan's grief, In th's let love, let friendship—find relief,
'Twas God decreed—he call'd, and was obey'd, The mortal Saint was then immortal made, His spirit heard—nor felt a single pang But eager into life eternal sprang.— Were such my life—And would to God it were!
His Death should surely be my constant pray'r; Happy, like him who life in virtue spend!
How happy, who a virtuous Life thus end.

PORT NEWS.

June 3—ARRIVED from Workington—Thompson, Allison, coal and ironfoundery.

THE Creditors and Debtors to the Estate and Effects of my late Father Nicholas Smith, Esq; are hereby informed that I that ude

the e of
Bill
on uld
hort
re-
that
to e.
Mr.
his gave ead.
ly's and now
W ful y
on th ward will tors-
vices priva
cover solem
but t
the C
—
To
T
Newt o'Clas tinue
—
W
Gram
mende Printe
—
FIV
the Pri
—
A
High,
Pound
off the Micha
two B PENR
Josep
through
A r
GEOR
and pr
Month
5th mo
—
HAY
ri
Inst. w
the L situate to be Franch
Writs
Bourke
Maun
Caution
as I an
Father
Esq; b long fir
In Tru
take pr
under t