fir, or have place at the fide of the Effate in the Parliament Chamber : certain great officers therein named. ve precedence above all Dukes, except h as shall happen to be the King's fon. uncle, nephew, &c. &c rircumstance of the Prince de Conde's on officer of his regiment in the field. sppy to have in our power to relate in reunifiznes, fince it thews, that when of the blood is in question, the point ur in France is not purfued to fuch a in other cases. The Prince in a vioon, gave the officer a blow; the other but with his comm flion, he did not nicell fenle of feelings wounded; he Conde every where; and on all ocpublic or private, was confiantly befight. The other took the alarm, and eding that he meant to affaffinate him. rdingly afked him, What were his and what his intentions?-He had to reparation of his injured honour .-- " I it you," faid the Prince-" Follow he fwords were drawn and meafured : er touched the point of that of his adand instantly dropped his own, "My faid he, " you have condescended to ; it is enough - I am fatished -- The ou gave me no longer rankles in my t is fully expiated."

as immediately received again into the , and, under the auspices of the Prince, a very rapid promotion.

ional Record .- It is worthy of ob-, that none of the Kings of France n succeeded in the Throne by their s, for 130 years. The prefent King, 11, focceeded his grandlather, Leuis p had also succeded his great-grandours XIV, being then five years old,er then the French are to aggrieved at te of the Dauphin, oward is preparing to leave this counhree years tout. One he purpofes to Egypt. Should this valuable member live to return, his great work on Lawill be enriched with an Appendix, the History of the Plague will make uous figure.

ulty in a point of eliquette puzzles emen of the House of Lords, in rerince William's taking his leat ---not an instance in the English History r Apparent, and two of his brothers. d life of the father, fitting at the od in the House of Peers. The re puzzled, the oldest officers of the ow nothing of the matter, and the re filent. The place of fitting down, is to be determined, but whether on to-morrow, was not fixed when the ke up yesterday.

a case in the Exchequer upon an before the Barons, argued and con-er had been previously convicted of o breaches in one and the fame act ient, passed to prevent frauds in the malt, viz. The throwing out of the the couch before the barley had nder the water forty hours, as the and then immediately supplying the freih barley, and wetting it immethout giving fift forty-eight hours e officer of the trader's intention fo ie judgment of the Court was in the confirmed, and the trader fined in penalties of 100l. each. In this raud and injury fullained by the ild only extend to the fecond weth it appeared was meant, in the be trade, to be run) the first having d in the ciflern, and thrown our uch; but the Court observed, that. . I wifely guarded and fenced in the he duties by those provitos of fixing avanteerun temmen and officers, " I am informed that three transports have been fent from this place fince the 20th of March, and that the first now on the Danube confine of the following veffels, viz. one frigate of 42 guns; one ditto 24 guns 12 pounders: feven floops of war, each mounting 18 guns 12 pounders; fix gun boats, each three guns, one gan 24 pounder, and two ditto 12 pounders, four iloating batteries, each fix gurs 12 pounders; 32 thikes, each fix guns, three pounders, rows 50 oars, and have 80 men; and 20 small galleys. This fleet is intended to affilt at the fiege of Belgrade; it is to uttack one part by water, while the troops crofs the Save to attack the town in the rear. These veffels are all ship-rigged, and built on a flat confiruction on account of the number of banks going down the river. I law the place, with all the ficet as they are deligned to lay at Semlin, and fadly wanted to get a deteriprion of it, but could not obtain my with, as I was not personally known to Major Williams; though I hear he is an Englishman, and has been only fix years in the Imperial

" This morning arrived the agreeable news from Vienna, that his Mujefly is a great deal better, at which the people much rejoice, as he bears the character of a brave and good momerch."

Saturday, about three o'clock in the afternoon, a woman of genteel appearance, a foreigner, attempted to drown herfelf in the Canal, St. James's Park, but was prevented by the intervention of a clergyman and other persons prefent. From what we can learn, the cause of this rath step originated in an unfortunate matrimonial connection. One of those montters of iniquity, who are always upon the Inck out to entrap the unwary temale, finding that this poor woman policifed a fortune of about 3000l. addressed ber, and soon obtained her hand in wedlock. A feries of uninterrupted conjugal felicity, accompanied on his file by the fondest endearments, foon enabled him to get into his hands every penny of her fortune : with this he took French leave, and left her to lament her helpfels fituation without money and without friends.

DURLIN, JUNE 20

A! fix o'clock on Sunday evening a meffen ger arrived at the Callle, with dispatches for his Excellency the Marquis of Buckingham,

Lieutenant Colonel Lenox, who had the late affair of honour with his Royal Highness the Duke of York, is the fon of Lord George Lenox (brother to his Grace the Duke of Richmond) whose bravery was so eminent during the late German war, and who figured particularly at the famius battle of MINDEN, where Lord George Germaine blafted his Ruffian coarfe linens are fold at foreign markets on much cheaper terms than those of this kingdom. Their middle price goods have, bowever, a harfhnels, that prevents them from being properly flamped, or rendered agreeable for wear. The French coarfe linens are deemed preferable to those of any other country, but in their very fine, (termed cambricks, from the province in which they were originally made), the production of their looms are superior to any other part of Europe. In the medium kind Ireland excels, and fuch fahries are most likely to prove advantageous to the interests of commerce. The Dutch fabrics are remarkably fine and good, which depends much on the powerty of the foil where the flax is produced, the fibres being more attenuated. Thus we find that the rich grounds of Muniter produce lefs valuable flax than the mountainy or flosey furface of the Northern parts of this kingdom, and that what is termed barren land might, on proper encouragement and exemptions, prove a fource of great internal wealth; even the murily, when partly reclaimed, produces rape

The congregation at Spring-garden Chapel was on Sunday morning very much alarmed; the Rev. Mr. Pitcairne, loon after he had taken his text, dropt down in a ht of apoplexy. As he was taken out of the chapel, and had immediare affiliance, it is hoped he recovered, DIED. Mrs. Eliza, Jocelyn, reliet of the Bill late Major Jocelyn, uncle to the Countels of Belvedere.

Cork, June 1. This day the 20th regiment | reemback d on board his Majesty's ship Hahnibal that at Cove, to fail for Nova Scotia; and to-mor- to row the 21st, regt, are to embark from Kinfale.

Died, Friday the wife of Mr. Steph, White, Mr.

Waterford, June 2. Arrived on Thursday, shis the Carreret, with the mail, and Benjimin and rave William Burton, Efgrs, three horfes and their ead. fervants, # -- Muxwell, Elq; Mila Granahan, Ily's and Mils Molloy.

The Limerick Chronicle.

MERICK.

The 15th regiment will be reviewed next Thursday by General Paterion, at Loughmore. Last Priday there was a violent shower of hail between Nenagh and Shallee, which deftroyed a large hold of rape, broke fome glals, and did other damage.

Yesterday died in jail, Patrick Neal, who was wounded in an affray with the Cunninghames, near Cahirconlish, as mentioned in our paper the 4th of May,

The Fair of Dogafs will be held on Monday the 8 h of June-Cuftom Free,

The Rev. Denne Hoare acknowledges the receir of five guineas from Mrs. Meade, (at Arthur's Quay,) towards compounding the debts of persons confined for small sums.

DIED. Last Friday evening, on the Road between Purt and Abbyfeale, John Kiggell, Elg; of Camus, in the Couty of Limerick --Never did there die a Man more univerfally, more fincerely, or more delervedly regretted-Never was there a more firthing inflance of the uncertainty of this Life, and the vanity of all human enjoyments. He was on his return from the County of Kerry, in perfect health and spirits, had just expressed to his Servant the pleafure he left at having transacted his bulinels there to much to his latislaction-probably anticipated in imagination the joy of meeting again his family and friends-when instantaneowly deprived of life, he fell motionless from his Harfe, - Every method that the greatest skill and prudence could have luggested, was initiantly taken to reflore him to his afflicted triends and relations-but alas! without effect.

His manners fweet, benevolent his mind, In him was loft a friend to ALL mankind. A Man, for virtue, probity, and worth, Equall'd by few, excell'd by none on earth; A better hufband womap me'er obtain'd; No fonder parent, and no truer friend; In all respects so faithful, so fincere, He sung may claim the tribute of a tear .-Yet not for HIM permit the tear to flow, For him, nor heave the figh, nor forrow know, He felt no pain, no terror, or affright, By INSTANT Death convey'd to Realms of Light, Of Heav'n poffeft'd, his virtue's fure reward, He now adores his Saviour, God, and Lord .-Let this confole the Widow's, Orphan's grief, In the let love, let friendship-find relief, "Twas God decreed-he call'd, and was obey'd, The mortal Saint was then immortal made, H's fpir t heard-not felt a fingle pang But eager into bie eternal iprang .-Were such my life-And would to God it were ! His Death fhould furely be my conflant pray'r; Happy, like him who life in virtue ipend! How happy, who a virtuous Life thus end.

PORT NEWS. June 3 - ARRIVED from Workington-Thompson, Allison, coal and ironfounder v.

THE Creditors and Debtors to the Effate and Effects of my late Father Nicholas Smith, Eig; are hereby informed that I am ful y on th ward will tors victes priva CORET

puld

hort

the C TC

tolem

but 1

Newt o'Cini tinue

Grami mende Printe

EI the Pr

High, Pound off the Micha two B PENR JOSEP throug Ar

GEOR

and pr

Month

5th mo Init. W the Li fituate to be Franci Writs

Bourke Mauni Cautio as I a Father Eig; b long fi

In Tru take pi under 1