A Letter from London by the last mail, advifes, that the return of Lord Auckland (Mr. Eden) to London, from his commercial negociation at the Court of Madrid, fooner than was expected, was not the confequence of his having been able to execute his commission in a short time, but on the contrary, owing to unfurmountable (or more properly unforeseen) difficulties having unfortunately occurred while he was treating with the Ministers of his Catholic Majefty. This was the Revolution in France; by which the French Envoy at Madrid, (without whose concurrence the Spaniards would not go one ftep) not receiving any inftructions from his Court, on account of the distracted state of the Gallic Councils, peremptorily refused his acquiescence- to any of the articles pending at the time. His declaration of courfe threw cold water on the bufinels, to that nothing was afterwards agreed upon but a few preliminary flipulations of little moment. Thus, this famous negotiation, from which fo much was expected, turned out a mountain in labour.

The Colonels, Lieutenant Colonels, Majors, and Captains belonging to the different regiments now in garrison, have received cards of invitation to dine with Alderman Exshaw, Lord Mayor elect, on Wednesday the 30th inft. at the Mayoralty-house in Dawson-threet.

Last Thursday night, as the packet with the mail and some passengers was got under way, a clergyman of the name of Poulks, who with two other gentlemen were returning to Wales, after vifiting this city and its vicinity, was flruck by the boom, shoved over board; and though the people on board the packet threw out an anchor immediately, and were affifted by the wherry which attended, from the darkness of the night their fearch proved ineffectual, and the gentleman was loft .- We hear the body was taken up next day by a Welch floop, and carried to Holyhead.

Last friday Mary Bready, house-maid to lord Shannon, hung herfelf at his lordship's house in Henrietta-ftreet .- Her father, mother and brother were murdered by Joseph Daw, a few years ago, for which he was executed at Tur-vey-hill.
