We hear, the reference of the crown to the House of Lords, respecting Mr. Butler's claim to the Earldoms of Ormond and Ossory, will be investigated on Saturday next.

Great agitation is created among the gentlemen of the turf, by the death of the celebrated horse, Morgan Rattler, the property of Mr. Dennis, upon which large bets were depending for the next Curragh meeting. His death is attributed to the giving him too great a quantity of Calomel.

The KING against CARR.

On Tuesday last, the prisoner George Carr, was brought up to the bar of the Court of King's Bench, when the Judges proceeded to deliver their opinion on the arrest of judgment, pleaded on behalf of the prisoner, Carr, in Michaelmas term last, who was tried in July commission, 1790, before the Hon. Mr. Justice Henn.

The charge was, for forging and uttering a bill of exchange purporting to be drawn by Riggs Faulkner, and directed to John Harman, Jonathan Hoare, and Jerm. Harman, of the city of London, merchants, requiring them to pay to the order of Richard Browne, the sum of 349l. 6s. 8d. at 31 days after sight, and place same to the account of Sir Riggs Faulkner, Bart. Sir James Laurence Cotter, Bart. Charles Leslie, and Sir Richard Keiliet.

After a final hearing, the Court determined against the points made, and gave judgment, that the prisoner, GEORGE CARR, should be executed according to law.
