

EXCHQ said, perhaps introduced in the bill, it still, he thought, there in the bill, which went from the Papists an or human person what- give sins committed. proposed, that the clause might to answer the purpose, by inserting, except original sin.

MASTER of the ROLLS replied shortly had fallen from the last speaker. rose, merely to state, that in this the Roman Catholics, or Pa- were called, were not altogether. The question had been argued, the gifts had acknowledged and avowed the licentious and absurd doctrines that were laid to their charge, without ever consulting them upon their confession: and this confession had never been made on their part. In this light, he must contend that calumnies were thrown out against them which they had deserved, and which, if the clause remain in its present state, they must still be under. On the point of absolution and forgiveness of sin, he considered an English clergyman to be just the same as a Cardinal of Rome. He was, however, so much a friend to the bill, that he would not press any alteration that might endanger its going through the house.

Several members spoke, and different amendments were made in the clauses, which were all gone through, and the bill ordered to be reported on Wednesday next, if ingrossed.

A very general report prevailed yesterday in the City, though certainly not entitled to the smallest degree of credit, that a truce had been agreed on between the Empress of Russia and the Turks, as a preliminary to the settlement of a general peace. This rumour owes its origin to a letter received by a mercantile house in the city from Mannheim in Germany which very confidently asserts the news to be a fact; and such was the rage for gambling in the Alley, that Consols fluctuated in the course of the day from 77 5/8th to 79 1/2, and left off at 8th. We can take upon us to say that no news is known among those persons who are generally best informed in Continental affairs; and we should not have noticed the report if it had not had an effect upon the funds.

The advices from the continent received by Saturday's mail, are, on the contrary, of a very different tendency; and if we may judge from actual preparation, the parties the most concerned consider a war as very certain. The King of Prussia is making very considerable expenses in fitting out his army, especially in the artillery. The ordnance department in Berlin was never more actively employed. Bombs, heavy cannon, and batteries have been the most required.

The Empress is not less vigilant in procuring the best possible defence against so potent a rival; and as Riga will probably be the first object of his Prussian Majesty's attack, she has sent thither 500 heavy cannon, with other necessary stores, and has considerably augmented the garrison.

DUBLIN, April 16.

We have the satisfaction to assure our readers and the public, from the authority of several gentlemen just arrived in town from the barony of Forth in the county of Wexford, that the disorder which has carried off a good many of the inhabitants of that district, is not of a contagious or pestilential nature.

COPERNICUS,

WILL Cover the following Season, at CASTLELYONS, at Two Guineas a Mare, and a Crown to the Groom. A dark brown Horse, of great Strength and Beauty, 5 Years old, full 15 Hands and an half high, got by Highfyer, his Dam by Careless, his Grand Dam own Sister to King Herod. He is a Horse of remarkable large Bone, Master of 16 stones, and likely to get capital Racers, and Hunters: Copernicus was in training at Newmarket, at 2 Years old, but met with an accident, which prevented his being tried.

From his Shape, Make and Blood, there is no Doubt, he would have been a capital Racer, had he not been lamed so early. Highfyer, the sire of Copernicus, covers at Thirty Guineas a Mare. He is also, sire of Rockingham, Sir Peter Teazle, and many of the best Horses ever bred in England, some of whom have been sold at Three and Four Thousand Guineas each. April 13, 1791.

The Groom has positive Orders, to receive Payment, at the Time of Covering. Good Grass at the usual Prices.

ALSO, to Cover the following Season, at Castlelyons, at Two Guineas a Mare, and a Crown to the Groom, the beautiful bay Horse, sire of Musti:—He was got by King Herod, his Dam by Old Snap, his Grandam by old Cade; his great Grandam by Partner, and was Siller to Marchom's Dam: He is full 15 Hands and an half high, and of perfect symmetry: Fitz-Herod is the first bred son to King Herod, now living; he has three times the Dury Arabian in him, which was the sire of Childers; a twice old Fox, and twice Partner.—Musti, a son of Fitz-Herod, and now the Property of his Grace the Duke of Bedford, is considered as the most beautiful Horse in England, and to possess the best Speed, he has beat most of the capital Horses in England, and last October Meeting, at Newmarket, he beat his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales's famous Horse Don Quixotte, across the Flat. April 13, 1791.

FITZ-HEROD,

The Groom has positive Order, to receive Payment, at the Time of Covering. Good Grass at the usual Prices.
