

Died. Last Friday, Rowland Davies, of Daw's-town, Esq.—Last Saturday morning in London-road, after a few minutes illness, Mr. William Manfegh.

Tralee, March 23; Monday last, Mr. John Murphy, butcher, who had been confined in the old jail, for some time past on account of his lunacy, burnt a part of the door of the room in which he was confined, and by that means got out. And on Wednesday morning his body was found, by accident, in the river at the New Bridge, where, it is thought he must have thrown himself in, as his hat was tied about his face.

The Limerick Chronicle.

L I M E R I C K.

On Wednesday this city was deserted by all ranks of persons, to attend the interment of the remains of Henry Vereker, Esq; whose fate will be ever lamented.—The train of carriages exceeded any idea of the numbers supposed to be kept in and about Limerick.—The melancholy which so strongly appeared on every countenance could only be equalled by the doleful murmur of execration at the prevalence of this barbarous practice, which, in this instance, has deprived society of a Gentleman of the most amiable disposition, beloved and respected by all who had the happiness of his acquaintance.

In viewing the Funeral Procession of HENRY VEREKER, Esq; on Wednesday last.

Ah me! what gloomy horror fills the air?
I hear, alas! the voice of dire despair:
'Tis he—'tis HENRY'S dear remains come on,
An awful, solemn, melancholy throng,
In grand procession thus attends his bier,
The hardest heart sure now must shed a tear:
HENRY adieu! thou dear ill-fated Youth,
Possess'd of honor and unblemish'd truth;
Oh! fatal honor—that—has caused thy fall,
Snatch'd from the world by an untimely ball—
Oh!—blasted ball—how cruel was thy aim,
To sever from his friends, from wealth and fame,
A Youth whose merit claim'd a kinder doom,
But fate consign'd him for an early tomb.
Accept this trifling tribute from a Friend,
Who knew thy worth, and now laments thy end.
AMICUS.
