

of the present campaign, extremely apprehensive of the English, and yet the Robin Club have dared to commit themselves against the Sovereign of this country, notwithstanding the hostility which it has maintenance between the French and the English. In America no barriers—no mens' heads were cut off—ladies' bodies, mangled, and the streets in triumph—parades and ironed, were not to be seen. The Americans did not commit any rapes, murder, or plunder of their Generals, unjustly, but to their vices, at which whatever blood was shed, was in the field. The American atrocities to be repeated, was not the French has, by massacres, descriptions; battles, severe fought, and the chance

On Thursday last an address was given by the princineated by being gathered too quick. Bad provender brings on pestilential murrain.—Beeves, sheep, hogs, and poultry, fed with damaged grain (and it will this year be given to them, for it cannot be applied to any other purpose) affect the health of mankind. A remedy is now offered by the author of this to his country and the world. A farmer may soon erect a kiln; or a common kiln for a whole parish, might be built where malsters' kilns cannot be had. All grain not gathered dry, soon grows mouldy; and particular care ought always to be taken to dry it, or it will not be fit either for the use of man or beast."

Last Tuesday night, Mr. Anderson, surveyor of Excise at Rathkeal, with a serjeant's guard from the 34th regiment, quartered in this City, attended by a Constable, proceeded for Newmarket, (Kenry) in this County; in the neighbourhood of which they seized a hoghead of whiskey. But their chief design was to apprehend James Walsh, malster, of Newmarket, for a breach of the Excise Laws, which having effected, they were taking him off, when the party was attacked by a number of country people, who pelted the army with stones; on which they were ordered to fire, and the same being complied with, unfortunately killed a young man named Philip Fitzgerald, a labourer, and desperately wounded two others:—James Walsh was lodged in the prison at Rathkeal.

The Coroner's Inquest was held the following day on the deceased Fitzgerald,—when their verdict was "wilful murder, against the Revenue Officers, and the Soldiers who fired."

The Master and Wardens of the Company of Brogue Makers, sent six pair of Brogues to the House of Industry on Wednesday last, which they seized said day for being fraudulently manufactured.

Yesterday two companies of the 34th Regt. marched hence for Clare Castle, where they are to be cantoned, until further orders.
