

Ad deprive a great majority of Conunster, and a great part of Ulster, of the elective franchise, and he measure in very severe terms, as to inflame the public mind.
looked upon the amendments made cessary, as they would be a means perjury.

Hutchinson deprecated a discussion of at the heel of a Session; he said that heel of a Session in the reign of Geo. the right of voting was taken away nan Catholics by a clause introduced on bill; for his part, he did not beere is a disposition by a clause in an to take away the concessions which made to the Roman Catholics, but ments will make a bad impression and o think that there is a divided intente le at those concessions made to the Roces, and by degrees take them all away; eriod of the Session he did not like ing should be attempted to be done ; if the amendments be pressed, he for a call of the House; these amend-it, will create much public agitation, duce very bad effects; he said there ferent parts of this country very sub-mers who did not speake English, and to him very singular, that the Irish should be proscribed; He again dear he deprecated the discussion of this and he gave notice that on Monday he ve for a call of the House.

Blaquiere could not see any reason fidavit could not be taken in the Irish as a the English language, these amend-said, if passed, will create ill blood from of the kingdom to the other, and every n in this House ought to oppose them. rattan considered them as a revocation lective franchise granted to the Roman s, and an attempt to cast a blemish on nation and character, he declared that ould be adopted, he would, Session af-on, move for a repeal of them.
Jones said, that what was granted to the s ought to be fairly and religiously ato.

Hutchinson's motion for taking these ents into consideration on Monday, was t and carried in the affirmative.

trials of Mr. Harman's murderers, were ged as to be very tedious; six were ca-convicted the first day, and two more pected to be found guilty.

erday a charity sermon was preached at ter's Church, by the Rev. Walte Blake n, and a collection made for the support female orphans, amounting to about 1014l.

March 19. On Thursday night, be-the hours of twelve and one o'clock, Mr. attorney, on his return to his lodgings, ttacked by two foot pads about the middle shamble-lane, when one of them held a cane to his breast, and the other robbed f eleven guineas and a half in gold, and a guinea in silver. The fellow that held word cane to his breast, wore a blue coat a red cape and round hat, the other a ish coat and round hat.
