I only wish any plain man to weigh what has been stated, and then determine whether the French Rulers deserve to be viewed by us in any better light than any other power that had formerly been at war with us; in short, whether they are not fighting for power and wealth, and their own aggrandizement, just as much as when they had a King; whether they care what is the Government of another country provided they can gain their own point; and whether if they should succeed in effecting a landing here, even the Democrats could have any thing to hope for but to be robbed and pillaged, like the rest of their countrymen. This, however, I shall endeavour to prove more fully in a following Paper.

MARRIED. Mr. Mathew Boyle, Printer, to Miss Margaret Shearman, both of Cook-street.

CORK, October 15.

The detention of the Spanish ships is not to be considered as an absolute capture. It is a measure of precaution merely, justified by the previous conduct of Spain; and the register ship carried into Cove may become a point of negotiation.

Sunday arrived his Majesty's ship Apollo, Capt. Manly; Magnanime, Capt. D'Courcy; and Dryad, Lord Beauclerk, from a cruize, after seeing the West India fleet safe into Channel.—Saw no enemy's cruizers.

Sunday evening a 2d division of the Jamaica fleet passed this harbour, for the English Channel.

Married. Mr. John Hall, to Miss Sharp, of Paul-street, with a fortune of 2000l.

LIMERICK,—OCTOBER 19.

A Corps of Cavalry, is formed in Tarbert, the command of which is conferred on Sir Edward Leslie, Bt. whose commission as Captain appeared in the last Dublin Gazette.

We can now with pleasure assure the Public, that a Committee of zealous and disinterested Gentlemen have undertaken the publication of the Sermons of the late Rev. Sylvester Goonan, of this City.—We hear much of their intrinsic Merit from those who have seen some of them in manuscript.—They are all original—He wrote as he preached, not to a particular Sect, but to the World—not to foster little prejudices, but to enforce a sound morality, the grand object of all true Religion—His functions as a Pastor, gave him an intimate and a comprehensive knowledge of human Nature—He lived retired in the midst of Society, and his inclination and habits led him to study and Philosophy—We all know his natural Talents were great, and that he practised the solid unpretending Virtues of an enlightened and a sincere Christian. Therefore without presuming to anticipate the public Judgment, we hope the work will meet with due encouragement from every one, who "wishes to think soberly, act virtuously, and to pass with satisfaction, security, and honour, thro' this Life to a better."

MARRIED. At Tipperary on Monday, Mr. Richard Bradshaw of Ayle, to the agreeable Miss Maria Duggin, with a large fortune.
