said to be in the combination all over the orient—May the Lord save us from the hands our foes.—There are large rewards offered for discovering the perpetrators, and the inhabitants of the different wards of the City, are obliged in rotation to patrol the streets by night, withstanding the extreme cold of the season.
 Affairs of every kind was very brisk until these days—now all is at a stand, working idle, little going by any—many failures of principal houses, and the same complaints, arising from the same causes, are to be found every where. I may add to this, the growth of irreligion and infidelity, which with us make rapid strides; nor are they ashamed to own it, but are to show their infidelity in the face of the sun. Tom Paine's doctrine has not only poisoned the minds of the French, but of the Americans also, so that French politics and French principles are generally united;—I say generally, but not altogether; for the Lord has still preserved the consciences of some uncontaminated, from the spreading evil, who have not bowed the knee to Baal. But the time so long predicted by the Apostle is come, wherein the lamentable prophecy is fulfilled, of "denying the Lord, who bought them."—Since writing the above, we have received accounts of another fire in Savannah, and 50 more houses are consumed. Our fears are great—May the Lord be our protection! Farewel—if any thing more occurs, you shall have it in time."

Feb. 9. Sailed the Agnes, Groswork, oats.—The Dove, Allen, Liverpool, oats and feathers.—10. Sailed the Concord, Blue, Liverpool, oats.—The Phoenix, Gibborn, London, provisions.

MARRIED. The 3d instant, Mr. Richard McElligott, Classical and Mathematical Professor in this City, to Miss Mary Craig, daughter to Mr. William Craig, of Cork.

DIED. Late Thursday, in Mungret-street, after a tedious illness, Mrs. Sargent, wife to Alderman Francis Sargent, James; sincerely lamented by a numerous acquaintance.—Yesterday, in Crobie-row, the wife of Mr. Malachy Kirby.
