Wienels does not believe that the Prifoner would, if the arrest had non taken place, have been voluntarily in Ireland before the first of December, 1798 : he made no application to witmels for the purpose; wirness would have trans-England is the thoricit way fram Cunharen to

Examined by the Court - Never communicared to priliner that he was willing to fend him to Ireland; if prifoser had thated the circum-theness of the Act of Purliament, and that he had to thore a period remaining, he would have done every thing in his power to fend him to Ireland -cult not have fent him without the confent of the Senare-had the prifoner conferred the Senate would have contented, and permitted witness to fend him, but lending him immediarely would have depended on winels having proper perform 11 copyey him to Cuchavea, where his Majedy's hippor year lay - Winels cannot far that he could have done this on the 24th-from Yarmouth to London winnels thinks is about 140 miles.

George Smith, fworn - Was feet on behalf of the priforer to Hamburgh in January with a Subpox a from this Court-ferved Sir James Crawford with a copy of it in London; ferved Mathias Meyet, First Officer of Justice at Ham-burgh, and Ferninand William Waltheoff, another Officer of Julice : they act under the Senate of Hamburgh-rimels understands that Meyer was concerned in the arrell of the prifoner : these persons did not obev the summonswitness was empowered to offer them any payment they might demand for their expences.

The cafe was here closed for the priloner The Aitorney General offered to produce Francis Fatter, Pott-matter of Rudand, to prove, in corroboration of the hearfuy evidence of Sir 1. Crawford, that Tandy avowed himfelf to be an Officer in the fervice of the French on the 15th of September, 1798

To this the performer's Counted objected, as being previous to the pathing of the act, and the Court being of opinion that it was irrelevant to the iffue which was the possibility or impossibility of the prifoner furrendering before the IR of Docember. In confequence of the arrest on the 24 h of November, this evidence was not

The Arcorney General then entered at large into the rules of law bearing on this cale; he cited the cales of Roger Johnson and Alexander Murray from Foller, and that of Lord Daffus from Baron Comyo's Reports, in Support of the polition that nothing but an actual compliance with the letter of the law can bar an Act of Attainder. The cale of Lord Duffus he particularly dwelt upon-it was nearly as follows: By an act of 1. Geo. 1. Kennot, Lord Duffus, and leveral other persons, (concerned in the Rebellion of 1715) were called upon to furrender on or before the 3pth of June, 1715,0 m pain of bing arrained: or the 4th of M.v. Mr. G. Pontonby observed upon the evidence on the part of the prifesery he contended that the case of Lord Duffus had nothing to do with the prefent iffue, which was merely the impossibility of forrender on account of the act of the King's Minister.

Mr. Ridgeway, following on the same fide, was stopped by the Court, whalcharged the Jury with the fingle question of the possibility of the Prifoner furrendering himself in confequence of his arrest and detention; his previous intention had nothing to do with the iffue -every moment between the 24th November and the 1st of December, and to the last hour of that day, he had an opportunity of forming that intention and put ting it into effect. If the Jary should think that he was presented to doing by the arrest and de-tention, they would find accordingly.

The Jury retired and found a verdict in favour of the Personer's plear

The Accorney-General then faid, that as the pleadings and facts in the cale of Morres were precifely the fame, he would not trouble the Court thereupon, but withdraw his replication and coniefs the plea. He preved to have the Priloners remanded. The prifoners were then feminded accordingly.
