

system, since firmly and happily erected. We feel wanting a supply for his patriotism; on reflecting, out to India, he had every reason effects of a tropical atmosphere upon yielding to the hand of time, and the variety of services in which he employed under each visititude of circumstances none of the motives on ordinary minds could have induced in accepting the Governor Generalia, and it is believed that he acquiescence only at the earnest solicitation late Premier. Our affairs in that it have been precipitated into a state of excitement, to extricate them from which the exertion of political discernment, moderation, in conjunction with mildness. It were difficult to select a character these were more eminently united Marquis Cornwallis; his assumption of command of India, gave the consolation that all these brilliant qualities were called into operation on a stage on which had before been displayed with so much to himself, and so much advantage to the cause of India, and to the best interests of the world. To his never expiring honour let his name be a tower of strength and a permanent safeguard to his country. The West India Fleet arrived on Sunday last, and were expected to arrive on Monday, if the weather permitted. On the evening, about 9 o'clock, a Scotch vessel received a most violent stroke of a stick temple, from some villain on the new vessel, who immediately ran off. On hearing of the murder, Messrs. Thacker and Hill were brought into their house, his wound, very deep, dressed, and every other necessary paid him. We recommend every active and meritorious public officer, and Esq. to direct vigilance to those of suspicious persons infesting, or preying upon every night in the above quarters. On Wednesday last, by Michael Esq. to the county jail, David and John Bourne, and Catherine Casey, spinster, on oath before John Sheehy Keating, having on the 15th January last, rioted, attacked, assaulted, and abused Daniel of Cromogue, County Cork, and Dally, late of Balnalachane, County Limerick; in consequence of which violence Kenelly immediately expired. Mr. Kennerhassett of Bath, has been pleased to be the Rev. Francis Spring Eagar, A. B. of the parish of Ballyseedy, co. Kerry, vacant at the death of the Rev. Conway Blennerhassett. It is reported, that some propositions essentially connected with the Union adjustment, will be presented to the United Parliament. On Wednesday last, in Dublin, Wm. Marrett, Esq. was admitted and sworn an Attorney at Law in His Majesty's Court of Common Pleas, in the room of the Hon. Society of King's Inns. On the 1st of Feb. a distinguished meeting was held at Tralee, to represent to the Post-General of Ireland, the grievances suffered from the frequent robbery of the mail in its travels by night, and pointed to the fact of providing such protection were an order for furnishing the escort from our garrison, and corps of yeomanry as are stationed be-

A well informed and respectfully received Dublin Print, (Evening Herald) undertakes affirming Justice Finucane's reported resignation of his seat on the Bench, as premature.

We are happy to state, that the brig Experiment, mentioned to have threatened going on her beam ends, at the mouth of Clare river is now safe at the bridge of Care—the cargo entirely lost.

Just as this Paper was putting to press a large part of the side-wall of the house of Mr. John Lyons, Grocer, Mary-street, fell into the street. A gentleman having fortunately observed it about to give way, instantly apprized the workmen in the adjoining house, and the passengers, of the impending ruin. This happy alarm, no doubt, rescued many persons from sudden destruction. We feel excessive pleasure in stating that Mrs. Lyons, escaped, by hurrying from the shop, on the first notice of danger.

We cannot indulge the love-breathing flight of Leander's dove, by insertion, for reasons more fit to be advanced personally, than be intruded on public inspection.—Unless his drooping muse takes wing for the reviving zephyrs of a cooler retreat than the Idalian grove, we can only catch silent sympathy for his money and beauty-loving, yet neglected sighs.
