The Rathkeal Races are to commence in July or August.—See Advertisement.

Saturday and Sunday evenings, the Race Course was a complete scene of riot; on the latter evening, a man of the name of Ryan, a cooper, was killed, and a few privates of the 21st Dragoon, received a severe beating, and were it not for the timely arrival of Sheriff Stretch, with a party of cavalry and infantry, its probable many lives might have been lost. The Sheriff, very judiciously deprived several country people of their sticks, and dispersed the rioters.

On Saturday, at the Course, a woman was dangerously hurt, being knocked down by an horse.

Same evening, Michael Brien, an attendant on hazard-tables, on returning from the Course, fell off his horse, and expired on the spot.

On Monday at the Course, a woman was rode over by a Gentleman—she lies very ill.

Same evening, a man of the name of Toole, received so desperate a beating that his life is dis- paired of.

Yesterday evening as Mr. Malachi Kirby, re- turning from the Course, was getting over a style, he fell, and we are sorry to state broke his right leg; under the able care of Surgeon O'Halloran, who set the limb, there is the fairest hope of a speedy cure.

Last night, as Michael Cleary, waiter at the Commercial Coffee-Room, was going down the back stairs of the building, his foot slipped, and unfortunately he was precipitated to the bottom— after which he never spoke a sentence, and this morning expired at 3 o'clock. He just returned from the Course, and it is imagined was a little inebriated.

On Monday evening the Free Masons of Cork attended the Theatre in that city, when the comedy of The Poor Gentleman, and the Farce of the Quaker, were performed by private Gentle- men, for the benefit of Distressed Masons and their families. The money collected at the doors of the Theatre amounted to more than 360l.

We think it right that the Public should be in- formed that there is an act of parliament, the 45th of the present King, for the purpose of establish- ing Dispensaries in the country parts of Ireland, by which it is enacted, "That whereas such Dis- pensary shall be established, and subscriptions made for its support, that the Grand Jury of each Country shall every summer assizes present a sum equal to the sum so subscribed, and give it into the hands of the governors of the said Dispensary;" This is an important act, which should be more know as we are sure this libera- lity on the part of Government, will excite our benevolent Countrymen to form such useful estab- lishments.

A FAMILY IN DISTRESS.

An industrious tradesman, with a wife and six children, entirely depending on his labour, but now incapable of sup- porting his family (in consequence of a severe disorder that has confined him these several weeks past), humbly solicits the Benevolent and Humane for relief.—Benefactions will be thankfully received by Mr. James Peacocke, William-street, Mr. Richard Storey, and Mr. William Lloyd; John's-street, or at the Office of this Paper.
