On Friday last the Cruizer gun brig was disched with orders to Admiral Gambier. These fors were generally understood to related to the mediate return to the British fleet in the harbours of Eugland, bringing with them of course, these ressels which we captured at Copenhagen, howel er some time after the brig had sailed an express rrived with counter orders, but she was already oo far at sea to obey them. We can state most positively that the dispatches were to order Adm. cambier to take with him, as many Danish ships were fit for actual service to Constadt, instead of bringing them to British harbours, and to employ them together with his Majesty's vessels "for he good of the country."-This news does not deand any observation.

PRIVATE CORRESPONDENCE:

London, Saptember 24. It is some days past since I informed you, in stradiction to the assertions of all the Journals blished here, that the hopes of a general negoation for peace had not vanished, but on the conary, that the most distinguished powers on the intinent were auxious for the return of tranquil-A Cabinet Council sat yesterday, and another evening, which broke up at half past four clock. Immediately after the members separated, almsbury and his son had an audience of Mr. inning, and the rumour at the west end of the is, that the latter is to hold himself in readito proceed on a mission of the first importance, prosed to relate to a negociation for a General ce. Certain it is, the recent bustle among the bluct Ministers, and those diplomatique characwhom they have consulted, countenances the the reports which have the whole of the day failed, not only at the Court end of the town, among the most intelligent men in the city. It d be a great blessing if peace could be obtainthe terms, as Bonaparte has certainly effectual means to prevent our magrantic power extends. Should the langer continued there will be an alarming cation in our exports and imports, and there ry reason to believe, from the movements of Russian and French troops, that they medithe partition of Turkey, for which the feeble serveless Government of that distracted counbut ill prepared. Such a measure would be pre alarming, at this conjuncture, as the priletters brought by the last East India fleet, do by any means tepresent our affairs in that fors of the globe as favoable as we could wish. infortunate business at Vellore has not ceased forgotten by the sepoys and every letter refrom Madras agree on the bad effects that sued, from that weak and ill conceived ion .

His unwearied attention to this concern, which of late occupied his whole mind, was highly commendable, and perhaps was in some measure the cause; together with over-auxiety, of accelerating his jearly and untimely death.

Yesterday morning, as two young boys, sons to Mr. Thomas Vokes, of Thomond-gate, were amusing themselves with a pistol, which was intentiously left charged on a table in the room, one of them presented it, when he unfortunately discharged its contents into the side of the other, of which he still lingers without hopes of recovery.

Last Wednesday, a woman employed at Annacotty paper-mills, passing near the water-wheel, when in motion, her clothes were caught by one of the wings, which carried her round with such violence, that her arm and side were mangled in a shocking manner. She was taken to the County Hospital, where every attention is paid her.

Kilkenny, Sept. 26.—On Sunday evening, about half a mile from this city. On the Callan road, a most atrocious outrage was committed on the person of P. Quigly, of Gozlinstown, farmer, by two ruffians, who waylaid him as he was returning home, between the hours of seven and eight o'clock; they gave him a violent blow of a stone on the head, which instantly deprived him of sensation. After repeating their blows, they robbed him of cash and paper money to the amount of 30 guineas, and then threw him for dead over a stile into an adjacent field, where he lay motionless until morning. Medical aid was applied, but he still lies under his wounds.
