KENNY, MAY 9—Lord Mountcashel's Agent at Limerick has apprehended a man precisely answering to the description given of Stapleton, one of the murderers of Tisdall. Our readers will recollect that Mr. Tisdall, the Magistrate who secured Murphy (the principal in that horrid murder) was successful in pursuit of Stapleton, whom he transmitted to Maryborough jail, and by a constable, who, soon after, was found dead on the road, and that Stapleton made his escape. Mr. Delany has gone to Fermoy, and we hope that he has identified his former prisoner.

The same active Magistrate has committed to the jail of the county, a suspicious character, who calls himself Conway, alias Michael Bourke, and who could give no consistent account of himself. On his person were discovered 22 guineas in gold, a 7s. piece, about 100s. and about 170 ten-penny tokens. In his pocket was concealed a fine white night-cap. He affects to be an idiot, and says he acquired all the money by the lottery.
