

DUBLIN—AUGUST 24.

We are concerned to mention that an affray took place in the town of Omagh, between some of the Yeomen of that town and neighbourhood, and a small detachment of the King's Co. Militia stationed there, under the command of Capt. Cuolahin. It appears to have originated from some volunteers of the 73d regt. having marched into town with green ribbons (the colour of the facing of the regt.) on the same day that the yeomen mustered in considerable numbers to celebrate the 12th of August, having all Orange colours and other emblems in their caps; those distinctive marks appear to have occasioned a scuffle, without any premeditation on either side, till some ill-disposed persons, by false reports, occasioned some shots to be fired; and we lament to say, that two lives were unfortunately lost, and some few wounded. We are induced to give this statement, as we are upon the spot, to prevent the misrepresentation of ill-disposed people; and as Government has very laudably taken up the business, we shall wait their investigation on this unfortunate transaction.—Strabane N. L.

FATAL DUEL.—Extract of a letter from New Orleans, dated 15th May:—"A duel was fought here on the morning of the 14th, between Lieutenants Bowie and Hague, of the Light Dragoons. At the third fire both shots took effect. The former was mortally wounded. I attended his funeral last evening. The latter will in a probability lose one hand, as the bones of his arm, just above the wrist, are shattered in a shocking manner. They were promising young Officers, and were said to be two of the best looking young men in the army."

Cloamel, August 23.—The following is an extract of a letter, received by a gentleman in this town, from an officer of the 7th foot, dated from the camp of Talavera, on the field of battle, 58 miles S. W. of Madrid:—

"The dreadful day is over, and the French are completely defeated. On the 22d we advanced towards the town of Talavera, and drove the French through without much loss on either side; they took post on the opposite bank of the Tagus and we on the plains at this side, the two armies about three miles asunder; on the 23d lay on our arms, on the 24th advanced, and found the French had retreated; 25th and 26th, nothing but cannonading; on the 27th the French advanced with their whole force to attack us in three columns, in the most desperate manner, and at four o'clock the engagement became general. I want words to describe to you the fury with which both parties fought until night put an end to the contest. The whole night both parties lay on their arms, and at three o'clock in the morning of the 28th, the most dreadful action took place that has been fought during the war. They fought with unremitting fury, until about 12, when the firing slackened on both sides. At two o'clock the action re-commenced, and the carnage became dreadful. About four P. M. the French poured in the whole of their reserve, and were everywhere repulsed with the bayonets. Now it was that the French were seen retreating, the action was still dreadfully severe, and continued until night put an end to it.

"Before the morning of the 29th, the whole of the French army stole away, not a man was to be seen, and thus ended the battle of Talavera.

"Had you seen the field of battle on the morning of the 29th, you might have some idea of what our brave fellows suffered; about 4,000 of them lay dead and dying together, and above 8,000 of the French. Our loss altogether has been 2,000 killed, and 3,000 wounded—many of them mortally. Our regt. lost Lieutenant

Lieut. Col. Maxwell, of the 26th regt. is wounded at Flushing, but it is so slight, that it has not prevented him continuing the command.
