Giffen, arrived in our harbour to receive Volunteers for his Majesty's Navy.—We are glad to find that several volunteers from the service are availing themselves of the proclamation, & joining at the rendezvous in this City.

Yesterday morning, at one o'clock, a large sail boat, laden with turf, from the West of the Co. Clare, bound for this City, foundered, in consequence of striking with force against the Neptune lying near Begh Castle—by the exertions of the crew, the hands were saved, but the boat was unavoidably lost.

DIED.—Lately, at Saggard, Mrs. Stackpool, of Grosvenor-place, after a complicated illness which she went through with perfect resignation; the grief of her husband and family proclaim the great loss they have sustained.—At his seat at Carahyhill, in this County, on Saturday last, William Smith, Esq. one of the Burgesses of this Corporation, having served the office of Sheriff in 1767—a gentleman of the strictest integrity and most honourable principles; he was possessed of those qualifications which constitute the spright Magistrate, the indulgent Landlord, and the steady friend, and who performed the social and relative duties of life in a manner which makes his death sincerely regretted by all. His Estate and Property, which are very extensive, devolve to his two only daughters, Lady O'Brien of Dromoland, and Mrs. Arthur of Glasnevin, Co. Clare.—On Sunday last, at Clonane, in this Co. to the inexpressible sorrow of his family and numerous relations, Henry
