

exiled Sons of Erin. Rights of their adopted hat of their birth.—

given to the insolvent nt. was celebrated at likely to obtain their ench, the Fleet, Lud- nent for debtors, de- of gratitude to the different apartments e suspended on the ining the following and Moira, and the he committee of the pluments of the Lord s income on his juris- ear ending the 5th of and as Speaker of the r. £6,844 15s. mak- 8s. being an increase e last ten years. The year, about £3,500 owing to the extraor-

Majesty's sloop Stork, her convoy the trans- rk for Lisbon.

Roman Catholics of ation of giving a pub- rters of their cause in to other distinguished ie Earl of Fingal will ng of the committee a proper day fixed on k, on his return from le and venerable Pre- rancis Moylan, whose ace, is completely ren pleased to appoint q. one of his Majesty's n for the co. of Clare. n accused of the mur- l himself for the pur- ensuing assizes.—Con.

employed in saving hay y, they were struck by as killed on the spot, e of insensibility for a ow, however, perfectly was very general on led by the electric fluid not heard of any other

l, fell from a window, gh, and was so dread- are entertained of her ately fought at Marti- eatings Comyn, of the Gloster, of the 3d West challenger, and fell the e having taken place ers, merchants at Nor- cane the former in the ed a chiever and gave ead almost in two! Mr. at condition, his son in to the house of Bodeu, ie from Jamaica a com- much from the climate. n the 30th ult. captured of Genoa.

Henry Bevan, Esq. to the rged with picking the large sum of money, at Donovan, charged with ult. at the house of John Michael Gavin was beat, d on the 7th July inst.

of any thing which could have drawn upon him such severe and lengthened reprobation, as Dr. Nash's letter contained; with respect to Mr. Blakely he can only say that in no instance has he ever appeared to Mr. Ponsonby to have departed either from the rules of common sense, or from the line of conduct which should characterise a clergyman of the established church, but has uniformly enforced the pure and genuine doctrines of christianity, with a degree of ability creditable to himself, and freed from the dictatorial arrogance, so inconsistent with that humility and meekness, which our religion enjoins us to practice.

To Doctor Nash.

Dr. Nash presents his compliments to Mr. B. Ponsonby, and begs leave to assure him, that he never heard of Mr. Blakely's name until after he had preached the sermon in the Asylum, which gave so much offence; had it been proposed to Dr. Nash to substitute his name instead of Mr. Ponsonby's, he would have had no objection, as he would naturally conclude, that Mr. Ponsonby would not select one unworthy of representing him in the pulpit. Dr. Nash saw Mr. Ponsonby on the 24th, and did not receive from him the slightest hint of Mr. Ponsonby's intention: when Mr. Ponsonby duly reflects on this, he will, perhaps, feel less surprised at Dr. Nash's censure of him, as he is pleased to call it, and will find that, had he himself been similarly circumstanced, he would not have acted differently from Dr. Nash. As to Mr. Blakely's character, Dr. Nash hopes it may merit Mr. Ponsonby's high encomium.— Dr. Nash has been merely the vehicle of that opinion, which the sermon at the Asylum extorted from the most enlightened part of the congregation: how far the sermon at the Asylum was consistent with the Gospel, perhaps neither Mr. Ponsonby nor Dr. Nash might be admitted as adequate judges: but this Dr. N. has no hesitation to say, however, as he shall answer for it at the final judgment, that if it was not grossly misrepresented to him, that sermon was inconsistent with the Gospel and good sense; and if Mr. Ponsonby will vindicate it, Dr. Nash must expose himself to the charge of destatorial arrogance, and with a quiet conscience declare, that he is now convinced, that the Asylum congregation on the 24th, would not have been in better hands, had Mr. Ponsonby himself addressed them.

To the Hon. and Rev. Mr. Ponsonby, April 2, 1811.

Mr. Ponsonby had flattered himself that his correspondence with Dr. Nash was at an end; it was therefore with some degree of surprise, that he received a second letter, of which Mr. Ponsonby feels incumbent upon him to take notice. It is peculiarly gratifying to him to be enabled to state to Dr. Nash, that Mr. Blakely's sermon at the Asylum was received with very considerable satisfaction by great numbers of the congregation, amongst whom were persons of high'y respectable characters, whose names, if necessary, Mr. Ponsonby can have no difficulty in declaring, more particularly members of the profession to which Mr. Ponsonby has the honor of belonging; the duties of which, however, he must acknowledge and lament he is so imperfectly qualified to discharge. Mr. Ponsonby has nothing further to say upon the subject, as far as relates to Mr. Blakely; as to himself, he can only say, that any opinion, however unfavourable, which Dr. Nash may entertain of him, Mr. Ponsonby must receive with such perfect indifference, as to render any further expression of it totally unnecessary.

To Dr. Nash.

OPINION OF DR. DOBBIN.

I have read the sermon preached by the Rev. Dean Blakely, at the Asylum Chapel, March 24, 1811, with the utmost care, and greatest attention. The subject appears to have been judiciously chosen and peculiarly suited to the solemnity of the occasion on which the sermon was delivered; and I have no hesitation in declaring my sentiments, with respect to the discourse itself—so far from containing any thing exceptionable, it is my deliberate and decided opinion, that it is affecting, impressive, and instructive—such as I should have expected from Dean Blakeley, with whose christian zeal, and more than common talents, I have had ample opportunity of being fully acquainted, in consequence of the friendship and intimacy, which, I am happy in the

DIED—On Thursday morning last, in Waterford, after a short illness, in the prime of life, John Pym, Esq. of the Society of Friends.—On Thursday evening, the Right Hon. General Fox, Governor of Portsmouth, Colonel of the 10th regiment of foot Paymaster of the Widows' Pensions, &c. &c. and brother to the late Rt. Hon. Charles James Fox.—Tuesday morning, in Waterford, Mr. John Walsh, of Patrick-street.—On Monday last, at Mrs. Meagher's poor seminary, in Cove-street, Cork, Mrs. Eliza Karr, relict of Dr. Karr, of the co. Kerry.—On Tuesday morning, at Clare, Mr. Richard Lillis, architect.

THE SALE

ADVERTISED in the First Page of this Paper, at CONNELL'S Auction Rooms, Francis-street, is Adjourned to a future Day, of which timely Notice will be given. Limerick, July 26.

A Grand and Superb Assortment of Fancy Goods, FOR THE ASSIZES, &c. THOMAS DEVITT, RETURNS Thanks to the Public, for past Favours; and begs to inform them that has received, in addition to his former Stock, a great variety of Satins, Silks, Tabinets, Laces, Shawls, Scarfs, Crapes, Bombazines, Nets, Gauzes, Velvets, Feathers, Flowers, Hosiery, Gloves, Linens, Muslins, Cambrics, Furniture Calicoes, Moreens, Fringes, Gingham, Diapers, Lawns, Pelisse Cloths, Flannels, Stuffs, Dimities, and best Beaver Hats.

A Large Supply of every Article in the BLACK LINE. Limerick, July 26, 1811.

WHOLESALE SPIRIT WARE-HOUSE,

No. 2, HONAN'S QUAY.

O'Keeffe and Maunsell,

HAVE this day received direct from the House of BIRCH & Co. Roscrea, a few Puncheons of OLD WHISKEY, which they will Sell to Retailers, by the Puncheon, on pleasing terms. From the well known Strength and sweet Flavour of Roscrea Whiskey, they beg leave to recommend it particularly to House-keepers, who will be constantly supplied with any quantity not less than 10 Gallons, at Wholesale Prices.

Country Retailers will meet every Encouragement at the above Establishment. Limerick, July 26, 1811.

Mr. Gayer's School,

VACATION ends 29th July. Mr. GAYER has engaged a resident Assistant, to instruct in Writing, Arithmetic, and Book-keeping, for which he is perfectly qualified. 39, William-street, July 26.

ENNIS SCHOOL.

VACATION will end on Monday the 29th Inst. July 24, 1811.

House, &c. in William-Street,

TO BE LET,

RICHARD THOMAS MURRAY,

WILL Let, from the 1st of November next, the HOUSE in which he now resides. It is roomy and convenient, has a STORE at its rear, and is situated in the most frequented part of William-Street, near George's-Street; and particularly adapted for a Tobaccoist, or any Business requiring room.

Limerick, July 26, 1811.

TO BE SOLD BY AUCTION,

ON MONDAY, the 5th day of August next, at the Commercial Buildings, Limerick, at the Hour of 8 o'Clock, the HOUSE and CONCERNS, in Francis-street,