him in the performance of naval duty, and profession ally, he obtained respect and affection in a measured degree. A few words best speak the seaman's epitaph. Honour, honesty, and bravery mark the progress of his life; and Capt. Packenham's was distinguished for those qualifications, and for many social attainments when in the enjoyment of private life.

An intrigue in high life has been discovered within these few days past, which has been attended with serious consequences. One of the guilty party being caught in the trap, was so severely handled that life is almost despaired of.

BIRTH—At her mother's house in George's-street, the lady of John Wickham, Esq. of a son.—At Douglas, Isle of Man, the lady of Captain Douglas Meller, R. N. of three sons, all of whom died soon after the birth.—In Harcourt-street, Dublin, the lady of Counsellor Mac Nahy, of a son.

MARRIED—In London, the Hon. Capt. Poulett, of the Royal Navy, second son of Earl Poulett, to Miss Dallas, eldest daughter of Sir George Dallas, Bart.

DEATH—At Ballinhellick, co. Cork, at the advanced age of 99 years, Thomas Barter, sen. Esq.; he was the oldest freeman of that city, and what is rather singular, was never known to have a fit of sickness, never had recourse to medicine, nor was ever ill—he retained his recollection to the last moment.—At Cheltenham, Mrs. Hawtrey, relict of the Rev. C. Hawtrey, Vicar of Bampton, Gloucestershire, eldest daughter of the late Lady Deane, and sister to Lord Muskerry, Governor of this county.—Friday last, in Patrick-street, Miss Mary Carr, third daughter of the late Robert Carr, Esq. and sister to William Carr, Esq. of the Island.—In London, Thomas Backas, Esq. of Waterford.—In Portugal, Lieut. Robert Carr, of the 44th regiment.—On Friday last, at Cratloe, co. Clare, in an advanced age, Mr. John Cronin.

EXPORTS—Cerberus, for Lisbon, 1500 brls. wheat, by R. Nugent.—Maid of the Mill, for Greenock, 1274 brls. oats, 40 sickins, 25 cwt. butter, 2 tubs 3 cwt. lard, by Harvey & Fisher.—Susanna, for Cork, 1409 brls. barley, by Poe & Carpenter.
