

quences from the ratification of the treaty between Russia and Turkey, but we fear the disappearance of the foundation-stone will crush the fabric.

Anxious to put our readers in possession of every information, we have collected in a preceding column, such extracts from the French papers as are explanatory of the present situation of the contending armies.

The catholic Board, at a meeting held on Friday last, resolved upon an address to that most distinguished character, the Bishop of Norwich, who is now in this country, and that a deputation, with the Earl of Fingal at its head, should wait upon his Lordship to present it.

On Friday a most numerous and respectable meeting of the Roman catholics of the county and city of Cork, was held in the North chapel; the gates were opened for admission about eleven o'clock, and at twelve, every part of the spacious cathedral, was filled to an overflow. The chair was taken by William Copinger, junior, of Barry's court, Esq. who in a very neat, though brief address, pointed out the objects of the meeting and earnestly recommended unanimity. Several most respectable protestant gentlemen attended, and honored with their approval the proceedings of the day, which were conducted in a manner perfectly well worthy of the great cause with which they are connected. James Roche, Esq. moved the following resolutions, which were seconded by Counsellor O'Regan, and passed unanimously:

1. That feeling, with deep and solemn conviction, the danger of irritating and necessity of conciliating, at this awful period, five millions of men, who constitute efficient population of this land, and are the nerve and sinew of its strength, we will continue our unremitting exertions to obtain from the Legislature, the restoration—immediate, complete, and unconditional, of those rights, to which nature—justice—policy—the pronounced voice of our Protestant fellow-citizens, and the spirit of the constitution itself proclaim, with irresistible accord, our undoubted title.

2. That in furtherance of this great purpose, those gentlemen who have on former occasions discharged this duty, be now, with the addition of Sir Francis Gould, authorised to prepare petitions to Parliament; the least, we trust, we shall be doomed to prefer, as the progress of truth and reason so illustriously displayed in successive discussions of our cause, and the suspicious promise of its consideration in the ensuing session, amply justify the anticipation of its approaching triumph, and assure to our hopes the overthrow of that fatal system of exclusion, which has been too long suffered to disgrace the page, and blight the fruits, of British Legislation.

3. That the same gentlemen do forward our petitions to the respective houses of Parliament, at such time, and in such manner, as shall to them appear most conducive to ultimate success.

4. That we cannot recognize the existence of danger by the concession of those sacrifices which the enemies of her peace would fain obtrude on catholic Ireland—as the delusive safeguard of her allegiance, and degrading conditions of her enfranchisement. To no compromise of conscience or honor can we submit, nor can genuine loyalty consist with fear and distrust: our oaths, our interests, and our affections, are the pledges we propose. In these we entreat the Legislature to confide, as the all powerful motives of human action, and best guardians of the constitution, when made operative in its impartial dispensation of its benefits.

5. That vain would be any attempt to express in adequate terms the measure of our obligations to Lord Donoughmore and Mr. Grattan. A victorious result awaits their transcendent services, and will be their best reward; but to them will grateful posterity join us in principally ascribing the mighty conquest of their country's rights, and in recording their imperishable names in the foremost class of our national benefactors.

[Here follows several resolutions expressive of their thanks, to the several friends and supporters of their cause—want of room obliges us to omit them for the present, but they shall appear in our next.]

We find by a requisition, signed by fifty-five respectable catholic gentlemen of the county Kilkenny, that a meeting of the catholics of that county will be held on Thursday next, to consider the best mode of expressing their gratitude to their protestant friends, for their constant support of, and zeal in the catholic cause.

has an intolerant cabinet so much to fear as the growing union of all the children of our common country, which has been in a great measure brought about by the county meetings? In order to poison the protestant mind, and keep it in a state of neutrality, if not of downright hostility, just at the eve of our meeting, rumours of a popish plot were studiously set afloat, when not even a drunken fracas could be heard of thro' the city. But what interest could Noonan have in fabricating this plot? Did he expect honour or emolument, or reward at the hands of government, for defaming government? Is it for such services its minions are usually required? That he did not introduce the conversation about the disturbances is admitted on both hands; that his oath ought to be relied on, even in the estimation of his adversary is proved from the circumstance of his having given information before, which led his adversary in the present case to apply to him. At all events, there is one beneficial consequence likely to result from what has happened—it will teach the people caution—it will give them a lesson of prudence, that may in future hinder them from becoming tools in the enemy's hand for their own destruction. Their frankness, implicitly, and unguarded manner, especially in their social moments laid them always open to the kaavery of designing men.

On Sunday last, the Right Honorable John Ormsby Vandeleur and family, arrived at Swinburn's hotel in this city, from Kilkish, on his way to Dublin.

The Right Hon. Lord Chief Baron arrived on Wednesday evening, at his seat at Mount Prospect, in this county, from Cork.

Sir Charles Gordon, 3d Buffs, and Captain Wedderburn, 2d Foot Guards accompanied by his brother the Right Hon. Charles, Hope, Lord President of the College of Justice in Scotland, and his son John Hope, Esq. arrived at Swinburn's, on a tour through the South West District. On Saturday, Sir John reviewed the several regiments in this Garrison at Newcastle, and also inspected the Ordnance Barrack, Commissary, Recruiting, and Hospital Departments. He proceeded for Cork on yesterday morning, from thence he visits Killarney.

COMMITTED—By Godfrey Massy Esq. to the county jail, on Thursday, Thomas Donovan, William Jackson, alias Clancy, Bat. Commins, Michael Foley, and John Roach, charged with burglary and felony in several houses in the neighbourhood of Ballywire—This desperate banditti, headed by the notorious Donovan and Jackson, have, for several years extended their depredations over Ireland.—They were taken by that active and public spirited Magistrate Captain Godfrey Massy, he having previously obtained information of their return to the neighbourhood of Emly and Lattin—A list of the houses they had planned to rob was found on them. The few dismounted of the Costlea corps of yeomanry, employed by Captain Massy, in apprehending them displayed great diligence in discovering where they had concealed themselves, and resolution in taking them, as every one of them was armed, and determined on resistance.

BNUTH. Sunday last, at his lodgings in Bedford-row, the lady of the Rev. Mr. Jones, of Kildimo, of a son.

To render this great work of Charity, so beneficial and diffusive should be the object of a Dispensary.—On the Physicians exertions most essentially depend the success and unvarying stability of such an Establishment is the great property of all—often the object of the Medical Practitioner—every near to facilitate his attendance, claim a paragon. Under this impression, have the Surgeons arranged a plan, to them applied to obviate the difficulties felt on occasions, whereby they will be enabled, their other engagements, profitably to apply the relief of their suffering fellow-creatures thus arranged, will, they confide, meet with approbation—and the kind and liberal benevolent Public

PLAN.

A House will be taken in a Convenient Town, at a moderate Rent—to be called

'The General Dispensary'

In it Medicines will be kept—an Apothecary and a Porter will attend.—A few Beds will for the reception of Persons apparently drowning or other Causes.—Such apparatus found useful, will be provided, and as in delay of a few moments may be of consequence, immediate attendance will be given the Medical Gentlemen.

At this House a Physician will attend, at on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Saturdays. The market days have been particularly so these, opportunities for the conveyance of Sick Poor, to and from town, occur more than on the other days of the week.

The Sick Poor, confined to their habitations as often as necessary, by the Physicians prescribe Districts, as hereafter nominated.

Trusses will be applied to such as labor pains requiring them.

It is also in contemplation to give assistance in difficult cases of Child-birth, in their own plan calculated to instruct Midwives, with the lower walks of life.—This must be a debt to the Public, a consummation most devoutly to be wished for—melancholy to relate, many valuable lives lost to society, and many, very been the incurable accidents that occur so timely and judicious assistance! That this lenient and beneficent object must be warmly supported by the tender humanity and exertions of the FAIR-SEX cannot be doubted. Who felt, or expect ever to feel the pangs of Child but must reflect, 'How delightfully cheap anxious mind to be assured of judicious and attendance, in the midst of their families, consulting and sympathizing attentions to their sufferings?—These feelings are so prevalent such occasions, to induce the patient to undertake journeys, for the sole purpose of enjoying the same. Is it not to be supposed, that the Individual the same feeling? Alas! they have not the of indulging them.

If a sufficient Fund can be procured, it besides Medical assistance, to supply other such as Bedding and Clothing, articles indispensable on such occasions.

Vaccine Matter will be kept constantly in for the purpose of gratuitously inoculating children of such poor as may apply.

Monthly or Quarterly Reports of the state of the Institution will be regularly published. Meeting will be called, at least, once a year Accounts, &c. and elect a Treasurer.—General may be called more frequently, if necessary, sition from five Subscribers.

Although the month of July is well known most healthy, no contagious disease in general in this town, which has been the case this sick poor were prescribed for, and got Medical Institution—nearly two-thirds of whom were their own habitations.

The further Particulars of this Plan are reserved General Meeting of the Subscribers, which will in a few days, when a Treasurer will be elected Attendance, at present, is given on Mondays, and Saturdays, at One o'Clock, at the St. Infirmary, Sir Harry's Mall, and the different attended—

St. John's...by Doctors Geary and Reardon
St. Mary's...by Doctors O'Callaghan and St. Monahan's, by Doctors Vise and Carey—
St. Michael's...by Doctor Grogan.
Surgeons Franklin and Thwaites will attend District, when necessary.

N. B. Had this Institution been established the only support of a large family who was drowned Sunday last, immediately opposite to the Hou Harry's Mall, might have been saved, as he had few minutes under Water.
