

of the person nominated to act as Secretary of England, touching the general citation. This letter seemed to intimate the part of the English Catholics to acquiesce in the measures proposed, and to think that it would be for the advantage of the English Catholics to suffer the English Catholic Petition to be the Irish. Upon both features of the following discussion took place, and the result of the following Resolution.

That on reading Mr. Jermingham's letter do unanimously agree, that Mr. Hay be to Mr. Jermingham in the most respectful manner, that we have no communication to Mr. Jermingham on the subject of we believe sufficiently shows that there is a great difference of views, between the English Catholics; and that the one shall never be bound by the terms of any publication which the other take upon themselves to make. The members of the Roman Catholic Board, Messrs. G. and Sheridan, are to lay before the Board, a report of the measures which may be most expedient for dilavowing the Third Part of the Penal Laws.

At a Meeting of the Merchants and Traders, pursuant to adjournment, at the Royal Exchange, to receive the report of the Committee, appointed to inquire into the present state of the money market, and to recommend a plan for the relief of the effects of the scarcity of change, the Mayor informed the Gentlemen assembled, that the Sheriff had been appointed by the Committee upon Mr. Peckle, and to inform him of the state of the trade of the country was reduced to the state mentioned; that the Committee had only effectual and speedy means by which the scarcity could be removed, was by raising the value of the money 10 per cent; and that for the purpose of securing its proper effect, it was necessary to authorize the Bank and the Public Offices to issue, as the Merchants proposed that they should, at the advance mentioned—Mr. Peckle's Lordship and the Sheriff, that Government was anxious that every thing should be done to obviate the inconveniences alluded to; as to the measure proposed, however, it was impossible for the Committee to answer, which could be considered as satisfactory had been referred to the Chancellor of the Exchequer in England; that should be immediately adopted, the sentiments of the Committee should be immediately referred to the public might depend for relief.

It was said he had been authorized by the Committee to present a Memorial from this Meeting to be presented to the Lord Lieutenant;—and then read the following Resolution, "that the following Resolution be seriously withdrawn from circulation, as the inconvenience and distress was general and the Committee prayed that Government might adopt such measures as seem meet in order to remove or alleviate proposed by Mr. Gibbons and Alderman Macdonald, that nothing specific as to a remedy be proposed; but Alderman Archer, Mr. Peckle, and a majority agreed, that it was most proper to refer the matter of remedy entirely to the discretion of the Government.
