LIMERICK—JAN. 8.

On the 10th ult. the armed transport Mary, from Aragona, to England, in lat. 43. long. 10. fell in the American privateer Rattlesnake, David Moffit, Commander, a remarkable fine vessel, of 16 tons, and well manned, and after a gallant conflict, which Jacob Wintiner, Captain of the Mary, was obliged to strike—On board the Mary were 56 French prisoners, in charge of a Lieutenant of the 27th regiment, ten marines and four military officers as passengers—The American, after taking out the officers and servants, put on board the Mary several prisoners, which he had made from former captures, and gave the British vessel and its crew to the charge of the French prisoners to make the first port she could. Next day a Russian vessel was brought to by the Rattlesnake, when the officers and servants were put on board her, and last week they were safely landed at Ballyskelligs.

On Thursday sailed from Cork the West India fleet, consisting of 157 vessels, under convoy of his Majesty's ships Leviathan, Isler, Talbot, Trinulo and Echo. Upwards of 20 sail joined convoy at the mouth of the harbour, with a strong N. E. wind, and no doubt but in a short time they were clear of the land.

A large fleet for Portsmouth, the Channel, and London, sailed on Wednesday last, from Cove, under convoy of the Teazer and Earl Spencer. The ships destined for the Cape and India, the Isle of France and China, sailed from Portsmouth on Friday.

The last London Gazette contains a list of upwards of 20 American vessels captured, detained and sent from Halifax, by the squadron under Sir J. B. Ross and between the 20th April and 20th Sept. 1813. The Regent has most graciously received an Address voted to him in Council, on the 20th ult. by the Corporation of the City of Cork, congratulatory of the recent events that have lately occurred on the Continent, by his Majesty's Allies, who were assisted by the wisdom and vigilance of his Council.

A Deputation from the University of Cambridge attended by Lord Massy and other young Noblemen, waited on his Royal Highness the Prince Regent, on the 17th ult. with a congratulatory Address on the late glorious Victories; on which occasion his Lordship had the honor of being presented to his Royal Highness, and was most graciously received.

We have seen several letters from our Army in France, written subsequent to the Battles of the 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th ult. but one particularly from Captain Boyse, 32d Regt to his brother John Boyse, Esq. of this City, which states, that the enthusiastic valour of the British Army was never more conspicuously displayed than in those days.—The 4th, 9th, 28th, 50th, 71st, 84th and 92d Regts. covered themselves with never fading laurels, and so did every other Regiment which happened to be engaged on that part of our line, which was the object of Soult's attack; the efforts he made on the 13th were desperate, no less than four times he thought to have made an impression under a most dreadful fire of Artillery; but the result was glorious to the British—and Sir John Hope and Sir Rowland Hill sustained their character for invincible bravery, the fields, heath, hedges and ditches, were covered with the enemy's dead—the scenes which thus presented themselves were shocking to humanity, and the badly wounded of the enemy were tenderly conveyed to the French lines. The 32d has been since ordered to be the advance Regt. of the 6th Division, which are supposed to be the first for the next attack. Captain Boyse's letter concludes in the following words:—"I was for a few hours near Marquis Wellington, during the hottest part of the action, he is highly pleased with the conduct of the Troops, his dress was a plain blue coat, and covered hat; his judgment, coolness and courage, are greater than can be described, or conveyed, he is adored by every one, and though the army may occasionally suffer from cold, wet and some privations, yet they are borne with fortitude under so distinguished a Hero."

Lieut. Lloyd of the 8th, who was taken prisoner at Bayonne, is son of Edward Lloyd, Esq. of Castlemahon, in this County, and a near relative of the late lamented Colonel Lloyd of said Regiment. Lieut. James Church of the 95th, who was also taken, is son of George Church, Esq. of Listowell, and Ensign Murphy of the 3d Regiment, who was severely wounded, is son of Captain Murphy, of the 1st Regiment.—Lieut. Wilcocks of the 38th, also wounded, is son of the active Magistrate, Richard Wilcocks, Esq.

The 7th Division of Lord Wellington's Army was the 13th ult. commanded by Major-General Walker, 50th Reg. as composed as follows:—

The Earl of Caledon has assumed the command of his Regiment, Tyrone Militia. The following is a list of the Militia Regts. now stationed in Ireland, viz. Cambridge, Carmarthen, Dorset, Edinburgh, Essex, Kent, West, Lancashire, Monmouth, Salop, 2d So West, York, North.

From the extent of the Benefits to the Poor, who are ashamed to beg, for admittance into the House of Industry well as to the unprecedented application for the reception of miserable unhappy Lunatics into the Asylum, attached to this Asylum; the Governors had other mode of calling on the affluent, in Town Country, but by what may be collected for the institution by Charity Sermons; for which purpose the Lord Bishop has with his wonted humanitarianity the Clergy in his Diocese should fix on Sundays which they think most desirable.—In consequence, there will be a SERMON preached in St. John's Church, on Sunday next by the Rev. Mr. DDELL, when a Collection will be made, adequate it is hoped to the wishes of the Preacher, and the imperious call on the Benevolent of every denomination of Christians.—Since Sunday, two poor Lads, sent from distant parts of this County have been admitted, this makes the number of Lunatics in Hospital 30.—Total objects in both Asylums 81.

Thursday night, Mr. Wallplate, Revenue Officer, with Lieut. Carter, and a party of the Sligo Regt. went to the Bridge Mills, in this County, where he seized several barrels of illicit malt, on the kilns, in process, repairing for private distillation, which he effectually destroyed.

MELANCHOLY OCCURRENCE—Two men, Patrick Hanrahan, a Carpenter of Kilrush, and a Pedlar from the County Roscommon, whose name is unknown, on Thursday night took a lodging in little Creaghane, opposite the Court House, in this city, and retired to bed together in a small room which had not a chimney; the Landlady ignorantly placing some coals of fire on a metal pan near the bed, and the door being locked, and no window open, nor any means to admit air or let out the smoke, the two men unfortunately died;—an inquest was yesterday held on them by the Right Worshipful T. F. Wilkinson, Esq. Mayor, as Coroner, when the Jury, on viewing the bodies and place, and hearing the evidence of a Physician and others, found a Verdict, that they both died by Suffocation.

The Treasurers of St. John's and St. Mary's Charity Schools, for Boys, and the Treasurers of St. Michael's and the Convent Female Schools, acknowledge the receipt of Five Pounds each, in all Twenty Pounds, from the Trustees of the late Mrs. Banks's Charity, by the hands of the Rev.
