

HALIFAX.

The Honourable Major General Pakenham, Commanding Royal Fusiliers.

Officers of the first Battalion of the Royal Fusiliers, having learnt, with unfeigned regret, your intention of leaving for a time the immediate Command of the Regiment, avail themselves of this opportunity, to assure you of the sincere regard and affection felt by every member of the Corps. A series of years passed in unremitting exertions for the benefit of the service in general, and for the honour and welfare of this Regiment in particular, calls for such unequivocal expressions of our admiration and gratitude, convinced, however, that language will ill convey an adequate sense of our feelings. We refrain from expatiating on merits which speak for themselves.

The marks of public approbation and private affection, which you already possess, permit us to request that you will allow your Portrait to be placed in the Mess-Room; and, as a further token of our esteem, your acceptance of a Sword, value Two Hundred Guineas.—Sensible that the motives of duty will, in your mind, constitute their own reward.—By request of the Officers of the camp.

EDWARD BLAKENEY,

Royal Fusiliers, and Lt. Lieutenant-Colonel.

Lieutenant-Colonel BLAKENEY, &c. &c.
Officers of the Royal Fusiliers,

We received your letter, caused by my proposition, with warmth equal to its tenor—with affection few men have had a right to experience. Friendship formed at ease, confirmed in danger, is too sacred to need professions.—Your conduct has ever anticipated my wishes, towards the prosperity of the Corps, which your generosity has so much attributed to my past exertion.—Let your words speak a continuance of attachment.—My wish and desire of recollection hereafter to be served as professional impellants. In leaving the Royal Fusiliers, I separate from the best comrades, the chief source of my soldier's pride; yet, it will be the object of Duty I here draw the line between you, by usual energy continue ripe for service. It is for me to improve, the more honorably you.

Yours,

E. M. PAKENHAM,
