

...he was expected to attend for this purpose that committed the dreadful act of his own destruction.— An event created a very great sensation in the town— who knew Lord French, were more especially shocked at the terrible transaction, but it was generally with considerable sensibility. An Inquest was held on the body of Lord French Saturday last, before Alderman Bloxham Coroner. Several witnesses were examined, who stated at his Lordship appeared to be foolish for some time back.

Mr. Magrath, the Police Magistrate produced a letter marked "private," directed to the Hon. Thos. French; it was found on the chimney-piece; it was sealed with wax, bearing the impression of a tennny bank token.

There were two bags of papers found in the room, which the Jury wished to inspect. To this Councillor O'Dwyer objected; they had no proof that these papers were the property of the deceased.— They were found in the room of Gonville French, Esq. and it would be exceeding the limits of their duty to inspect them. He commented on the evidence which had been given. He hoped that the Jury would not, by returning a verdict, aggravate the misfortunes of this afflicted family, by which the chattels and goods of the deceased must revert to the Crown; of this he had no apprehensions, satisfied he was, that their verdict would flow from the evidence before them.

The Jury after consulting about half an hour, returned a verdict of INSANITY.

The present Lord French was first in the firm of Bank, his property is estimated at £16,000 per year.—The late Lord French was Tenant for Life.

Mr. Peel has directed the heads of the several military departments in this country, to transmit to Government a list of the officers and clerks therein employed with the salary and allowances established for each, and to report what number can be dispensed with—the clerks who are liable to be reduced will be transferred to the Civil department, according as vacancies occur,—no more new appointments will take place until those gentlemen shall have been provided for.

Mr. CURRAN—We have this moment received a letter from a friend in Dublin, informing us that Mr. Curran is to be immediately created a Baronet, that he is to get a seat in Parliament, where he can efficaciously defend his friends Lord Castlereagh and Mr. Manning against the attacks of the Irish.
