OUTRAGES.

with infinite concern we state, that every day we hear outrage being committed in different parts of the county by a set of desperate villains.—On Sunday night of the Rev Acherdeacon Wall, near Pallas grange, poked for arms, and the windows shattered.—Monday morning the sporting lodges of Colonel Penefather, and John Esq. in the mountains beyond Newport, were robbed and the furniture demolished.

On the night of Friday the 8th inst. a dwelling house in the Palace Kenry, was attacked and much injured by a party of ruffians, because one of the inmates had the audacity to take down a threatening notice, signed by Brigadier Blackthorn, which was posted adjacent. Another house was attacked belonging to a man of the name of Kelly, one of Captain Waller's yeomanry; but Bouney, some of his comrades who lived near him, a congaal and by appearing the fellows went off; about the following morning a numerous body of miscreants went to the lands of Faha and Court, in that Barony w down and scattered the hay of twelve or fourteen meadow, which was made up in cocks, and filled the with it, and trampled on it—before the fellows sep- arately fired a number of shots to intimidate the loyal in- habitants of the county; the only reason for destroying the hay because it was taken by Palantines. On the night of the 10th inst. several of these ruffians again assembled, and different persons in the neighbourhood of Kildimo.— these acts which are not confined to Kenry alone, but by spreading all over our county, should awake the attention to assist the magistrates with the military, to put these ruffians.

At five o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, the steward Lowe Esq. was stoop between Mitchelstown and Kildimo, by several armed ruffians who robbed him of the produce of butter sold at Mitchelstown.

The house of Mr. Smithwick, at Lacken, was attempted to be burnt on Tuesday morning—his son resisted the attack and was killed in beating off the fellows.

At five o'clock on the night of Monday week, about fifty ruffians came to the sweep at Póul a Cappel, about 14 miles from Clonmel on the Kilkenny road, and swore all the inhabitants to be faithful to the new system enacted by the Legislature of this county.

On these few nights, several emissaries of mischief in the neighbourhood of Portlaw about nine miles from Clonmel, and administered the oath against payment for tithes at the rate of two shillings per acre. Thus have these practices begun their course in the county of Clonmel, and their diffusion is most seriously to be dreaded. On the 10th inst. William Harty of Clonmel, was employed, by a person named Wright a Proctor, to serve writs for tithes upon some persons in the neighbourhood of Clonmel, Green, county Tipperary; and, as it is supposed, he took his wife and brother with him. When he arrived at the place, three men armed, one with a club, and two with blunderbusses, overtook and instantly fell upon him. He was not shot; but that would have been the more heinous crime of murder. They knocked him and his brother down with the butts of their blunderbusses, and the fellow with the club knocked down the woman, and the two fellows with the blunderbusses battered Harty's skull to pieces. Wm. Harty was not older than 22; his brother, a good deal younger, was shot, and got safe to Fechar. His wife, who struggled to save him, and escaped these savages miraculously, took up the dead body and conveyed it to the next town where it was refused admittance; and with a little effort to procure a car for hire, in order to bring the body to Clonmel. Captain Wilcocks being apprised of the outrage, sent the Police to the place, when it was too late to recover the body, and had the body put for safety into the hands of the Inquest, and had the body put for safety into the hands of the Inquest, and had the body put for safety into the hands of the Inquest, which, of course, was "wilful murder against the person of an unknown." Not a man in the village could be found to act as Juror on the inquest, which of necessity was adjourned to the Police. Harty's wife who had the process served, had her pocked cut off.

On the night last a number of villains armed, attacked the house of a farmer of the name of Burke, living at Cappagh, for the purpose of getting his arms. He resisted at length, but ultimately disappointed of their object, they set fire to the house, which was consumed to ashes. But Mr. Barry, with Mr. Walpole, being out with a military party in pursuit of some horse stealers, and coming up at the time the banditti, upon whom they fired; the firing was such, by which one of the soldiers received a ball in the head, and the robbers escaped.

prejudice or partiality to any individual, in disposing of the late contract for Lighting your GLOBES. The facts are that a Meeting was called for the purpose of Contracting on the 28th of August; Seven Commissioners not having attended, the Meeting was adjourned to the First of September, on which day Eight Commissioners met; the lowest proposal for the Lighting Contract was 29 Shillings per GLOBE, the next was from the same Person at 30 Shillings and 6 Pence, he engaging to employ a Fifth Lamplighter the better to ensure satisfaction to the Parish; the Third was 32 Shillings and 6 Pence, the Fourth at 33 Shillings and 6 Pence was sent in by the person who held the Contract in the year 1813. Three out of Eight Commissioners agreed with me in the opinion that the proposal at 30 Shillings and 6 Pence ought to be accepted, as the Security offered was unexceptionable; but the flight of the GLOBES in 1813 blazed so bright in the "minds eye" of the other Four Gentlemen, that we could not get them to agree with us. In vain did we urge, that it would make £75 difference to the Parish, that the times were bad, and taxation heavy.—In vain did we remind them that the Contractor for 1813 was appointed in consequence of his proposal being 6 Pence under that of his predecessor, against whom there was no complaint.—In vain did we argue that it would be mere mockery to advertise for proposals if the highest was to be preferred, but the twinkling lustre, the vivid blaze of 1813 seemed to effect the mental faculties and to overpower the wanted perspicuity of the four dissenting Gentlemen; thus matters stood for some time, Four against Four, at length it was asked, what was to be done? I then proposed that we should adjourn for a few days, and that in the interim a preference of the Contract might be offered to the favourite proposer at 30 Shillings and 6 Pence, which I conceived to be the utmost favor that he was entitled to, however this suggestion was not agreed to, and, for the first time during my experience as a Commissioner, the Chairman exercised his privilege of giving a second vote. I regret that that the precedent has been made, as I fear it will give additional encouragement to the growing practices which I am sorry to think already prevails too much in the management of the affairs of the Parish. It remains with you to form your own opinion. I can only hope that you will do me the justice to believe that I have endeavoured to perform my duty on that occasion. I cannot conclude without again and again assuring you that any evils you have to complain of are entirely attributable to the neglect, the apathy, or inefficiency of the Fourteen Commissioners for life, some of whom do not reside in Town, more scarcely ever attend, and many more but very seldom.—It consequently often happened that I was summoned to attend on very urgent business and after losing an hour or more of my time, obliged to adjourn a second and third time, though perhaps thirty or forty minutes would dispose of the business to be done, I must here remark that I often complained that two vacancies should be suffered to remain unfilled nearly Twelve Months, as if it was desirable to increase the difficulty of procuring a regular meeting of the Commissioners; thereby placing too much responsibility in our Secretary, who, by the way, is also our Treasurer; indeed by such shameful neglect of the Commissioners, he is almost Chamberlain of our new Corporation. I would therefore, earnestly recommend the Parishioners to be particular in their choice of Seven Commissioners to be elected on the 29th of this Month. None should be appointed but those who are likely to attend strictly and regularly to your interests.—It only remains for me to assure you, that if I am again chosen, and undertake the obligation of a Commissioner, it will be more from a feeling of duty to you than from any particular ambition on my part for the importance attached to the Office of a Commissioner.

I have the honor to be &c.
MICHAEL ARTHUR.
