Duel.—A meeting took place on Sunday, in the neigh- bourhood of the Scalp, between Mr. G. J—k—n and Mr. S.—tr—n; the former attended by Mr Smith, the latter by Mr. Moran. After an exchange of shots Mr S. fell, having received his antagonist's shot in the fleshy part of the thigh; the wound is not thought dangerous, the ball having been extracted immediately after. The cause of quarrel, we un- derstand, was some misrepresentation said to have been made by Mr. S. relative to a young lady.

It is now finally fixed, that a second daily Mail Coach is to commence running betwixt Dublin and Belfast, in the course of the present month of or, at farthest, on or before the 5th day of January next. The minor arrangements, we understand, are not yet completely settled, but we believe that it is intended that this second Mail Coach is to leave Dublin and Belfast at five o'clock in the morning of each day, and arrive at these places at seven o'clock on the evening of same day, and the letters to be delivered immediately after. The Public are thus very much indebted to the Postmasters Gene- ral, and the other gentlemen who have the superintendance of this great national establishment, so intimately connected with great commercial interests, as facility of intercourse gives ad- ditional energy to industry, and operates like the life and soul of trade and commerce.

On Wednesday se'night, a young man, who had been lately in business in which he failed, taking advantage of the Insolvent Act, was detected in Carrick-on-Suir, in attempt- ing to pass on Mr. Sause's Bank, a forged check for £98 16s 8d. of the Bank of Newport and Scott, of Waterford. He sent it with a very plausible (forged) letter, signed with the name of a respectable merchant in Waterford, by a third hand, to Mr Sause's Bank, who immediately suspected the forgery, and instantly traced the principal to his lodging, where, with some difficulty, he succeeded in securing him— On being searched, there was found in his possession another very suspicious looking bill for £364.

Friday night last, before six o'clock, as Mr. Julian's car was on its return from Waterford to Clonmel, some wanton villain fired a shot, by which the horse is badly wounded, as it appears, by slugs, in several places. The car was a very short way behind the coach, at the time of the attack. What the view or delusion can be, which still instigates this murderous propensity, it is hard to imagine. Mr. Julian's establishment is an extremely useful one, and very well con- ducted.
