

was at his grandfather's house the night it was robbed, and testified the prisoner Mara as one of the robbers. He de- scribed the manner in which the house was entered: part of banditti placed a ladder at the rear of the house, and entered a window at an elevation of about eighteen feet from the and, and part of them came in at the front after breaking door and windows from without by force. They took guns and a pistol from the house, as well as some money—and witness saw the prisoner Mara break open a box take out some cartridges, saying, at the same time, they would be of use to him—and witness also proved that Mara shot over old Mr. Blackmore, and said he would see him get up without help. The banditti had several files lighting while they were in the house; witness had opportunities of seeing them, and was certain of the prisoner's person.

Angus Forbes, constable, was called up, and proved the arrest of Mara. Mara and Stack (the latter executed on Monday last for the murder of the Archbishop's man) were taken up on the evening of the 10th inst. under highly sus- picious circumstances which it is not necessary to detail here: such were the means by which these two offenders have been brought to justice.

After a few words from Baron George, the jury, with- out retiring from the box, returned a verdict of guilty against the prisoner, who was sentenced to death accordingly.

Patrick Gleeson, Wm. Carroll, and James Bohan, were arraigned, charged with delivering a threatening notice to Wm. Foran, at Garrane, in this county, on the 11th Sept. induce or compel him to quit his farm.

Wm. Foran, witness for the prosecution, identified the prisoners as being of an armed party who delivered a threatening notice at the window of his house on the night he said, desiring him to quit his farm. He entered into a detail of circumstances, through which it is not neces- sary for us to follow him, as his evidence was not borne out on his cross examination—and moreover, Lieut. Colonel Macfather and Sir John Judkin Fitzgerald, on being ex- amined as to his general character, deposed that it was such that they would not give him credit on his oath:

The prisoners were therefore acquitted.

John Dwyer, John Murphy, Wm. Ryan, Roger Murphy, James Ryan, Thomas Hackett, John Magrath, Edmond Ryan, Roger Corcoran, Joseph Costello, Denis Dwyer, Michael Murphy, and Michael Lahy, were arraigned under capital offences (the same as those on which Patrick Keough has been convicted,) for destroying the dispensary and other premises at Ballough, &c. &c.—when Mr. Campbell, on their behalf, pleaded guilty for the prisoners, who now may be con- sidered under sentence of death.

From the candid submission made by these 13 unfortunate prisoners, (some of whom are very genteel and interesting young men, and sons of respectable people,) there can be little doubt but that the kind and knowa mercy of government will be extended to them, if an improved state of public con- duct in the Co. Tipperary should warrant the executive in sheathing the sword of justice; but nothing short of a return order in this county, can warrant a reasonable hope of mercy to these unfortunate men.

Yesterday the court was occupied till six o'clock in the trial of Thomas Quinlan, John Quinlan, Daniel Herrick, and Stephen Egan charged with conspiring to murder the Rev. John Hamilton, at Roscrea, &c. &c.

After a patient examination and cross examination of wit- nesses for the prosecution, the jury announced that it was necessary to enter into an examination of witnesses for the defence, as they had come to a determination to acquit the prisoners, from the evidence already before them. Robert Dyer as the first witness examined for the prosecution; his evidence appeared not only suspicious, but was not borne out by the other witnesses on that side. The prisoners were therefore acquitted; and the Solicitor General after expressing himself satisfied how grossly the Rev. John Hamilton, and other magistrates, with whom that gentleman acted, on the informations of the said Dyer, had been duped and imposed upon by the last named person, moved that Dyer should be taken into custody forthwith and indicted for perjury. The Solicitor General also moved, that 10 other persons, charged with offences to be proved by the same evidence, should be discharged—which being done, the prisoners were liberated and Dyer ordered into custody.

The Solicitor General then rendered every justice to the motives which had induced Mr. Hamilton to prosecute, on the informations in question; and Baron George also coincided with the learned Solicitor on this point. The full investiga- tion of the business was absolutely necessary. And though Dyer had practised upon the well meaning and innocent credulity of Mr. Hamilton, he conceived that that gentleman did not feel it his duty to have the matter fully investigated.

It is our imperious duty to say, that during this trial, the King's counsel laboured to bring forth the truth, without the slightest leaning to either side of the question. The court adjourned at six in the evening till ten next day.—Clonmel Advertiser.

CORK, JAN. 23.—Last night at about 11 o'clock, as Major Cane, of the 98th regiment, was returning to the Barracks, he was accosted by a man, near Sidney Place, who asked him what o'clock it was? The Major answered, he had not a watch, but he believed it was about 11. The man contriv- ed to keep pace with him, till he reached the Wellington Road, when he stopped, and clapped his hands loudly.— The Major proceeded, and had got half way up the hill, when three men rushed out from behind a wall, and one of them struck a violent blow at his head, which, however, had no other effect than knocking off his cap. He immediately drew his sword and stabbed his assailant, who fell. The others surrounded their companion, and the man who had first spoken to the Major came up the hill, when the latter pursued his way, having sustained no injury. Diligent search is making after the offenders.

Committed this day by William Massy, Esq. to the Co. Gaol, Denis Quinlan and James Joy, charged with being idle and disorderly persons.
