

station, with a party of men along the rocks, with lighted sticks, affording the most essential assistance, and thereby preventing the loss of the lives of several who would otherwise have certainly fallen into the many large recesses of deep water that encompassed and obstructed our progress to the main land, and over which the breakers occasionally waned. Every person having at last safely reached the shore, Lieut. Harty, with equal promptitude had arranged for their being distributed amongst the neighbouring cabins, and they were marched off accordingly to return early next morning, for the purpose of endeavouring to get out the arms and accoutrements; nothing, however, could possibly be effected towards that end by the early return of the tide, and consequent impossibility of access to the ship. The few men and some officers who were enabled to return on board, reported to me the nearly total destruction of all the baggage from the sea was running in, and the pillaging that took place after the troops were got on shore. Finding the men much in need of repose, and the day advancing, I directed their proceeding to Kinsale, leaving two officers' parties from the 59th and 62d regiments to remain in protection of the ship, conjointly with a party from the Limerick Militia, and with instructions to commence early next morning (1st Feb) in getting from on board the arms and accoutrements. I have since dispatched a stronger relief to those parties, and shall continue using every exertion until I shall succeed in securing, I hope, as many stand of arms, &c. as it is possible, which I shall have the honor of reporting for your Lordship's information.

I beg leave to express to your Lordship the very great support and active assistance that have been afforded by Governor B. O'Connell, Collector Meade, and the Magistrates and gentlemen of Kinsale. I am happy to concluding this, my Lord, by a report this moment received, that all the arms and accoutrements have been safely landed, and will arrive here this evening. The troops have undergone much fatigue, and are without necessaries, I therefore hope time may be given to recover themselves and get into some order.

From the brig that has been wrecked (Boadicea) with part of the 82d regt. on board, I understand that out of 280, only 60 have been saved and two officers.

I have the honor &c.

EDW. DARLY, Lieutenant Colonel, and Major 62d regiment.

Lieut. Gen. Lord Forbes, &c.

Embarked on board the Lord Melville transport of the 2d bat. 62d regt.

Custom House, Kinsale, Feb. 1.

My Lord—As an opportunity offers, going to Cork, I write to acquaint you, that on my return from the week last night, I had the honor to receive your letter of yesterday, and as you may be anxious to know particulars, I beg to acquaint you, that every person on board the Lord Melville transport, of the 59th and 62d regts. got safe on shore, at low water, except the few I mentioned to you that were upset in a boat coming from her, and were drowned.

The other vessel was the brig Boadicea, No. 561, J. O'Connell, master, had on board the following of the 1st regt. viz.

Two surgeons, one surgeon and his wife, two hundred and eighty five non-commissioned privates, fifteen women, and eighteen children.

About 150 of the 12th foot, under the command of Major Humphry, have arrived at Watford from the Isle of Wight.

Lieuts. Hewison and Goulden, 5 sergeants, and 114 rank and file, all of the 83d, arrived in Waterford on Sunday, in the Fox, Denis, from Dover. They had a dreadful passage: the vessel suffered so severely as to be nearly unmanageable.—In the storm of the 30th, Capt. Denis was tempted to run the vessel ashore, as the best chance of safety. The party marched for Cork on Monday.

Monday last, the 5th bat. 69th regt. under the command of Colonel Fitz-Gerald, marched from Buttevant to embark at Cove for the Isle of Wight.

The Treasurer to the Fever Hospital has received from Francis Fitz-Gerald, Esq. by the Rev. Pat. Hogan, £25 half the annual bequest of the late Miss White, to said charity, due last May—and from Mrs. John Wight, One Guinea, her annual subscription to the same.

FASHIONS FOR FEBRUARY.

EVENING DRESS.—White crape, or lace frock, over a white satin slip; the body and sleeves are formed of a very elegant fancy material, which has just been introduced. Head dress, the toque a la Rubens, composed of white lace, and ornamented with feathers and precious stones. Neck lace, ear rings, and locket, of diamonds.

PROMENADE DRESS.—A morning dress, composed of the finest dark mulberry ladies' cloth, finished at the bottom of the skirt with a new invented trimming, which has an uncommonly light and pretty effect. A plain high body, over which is worn a spencer made of velvet one shade darker than the dress, and ornamented with white satin.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS.—Merino cloth pelisses with pelerine capes bound with a broad satin ribbon, are the most prevalent out door costumes for the fair pedestrians.—For the open barouche or landaulette, ranks foremost the hussar pelisse of a French grey Merino cloth, trimmed down the front a la militaire; the back is made peculiarly easy, graceful, and elegant. For the close carriage, the Cardinal cloak is more in favour, which is generally of a tea colour, or some other chaste and obtruding hue finely contrasted with a rich embroidered trimming of chenille, in orange colour of different shades.

At the theatres grand costume has long been exploded, and a plain attire, with the simple and lovely ornament of a fine head of hair, is the most prevalent.

Round muslin dresses, flounced with lace are much worn for half dresses, with the Chester braces.

Painted Merino stuffs have succeeded chintz for common wear; while velvet poplin, and twilled sarsnet, are the most prevailing materials for dinner dresses. Moss silk stuffs have a most elegant effect; the lightness of this charming material renders it a real acquisition for many appendages to the toilet.
