O'Connor, Esq. a gentleman, and greater notoriety in the city of Dangan Castle, Co. Meath, near Anne, near Bandon, and is a city, on a charge of having the robbery of the Galway Mail, when it was attacked at Cap., and robbed of a considerable amount, and a gold repeating watch, of Loughrea. It appears the Head Police Office, Dublin, having been concerned in the case, Mr. Robert Gilbert, a peace officer for the apprehension of both the warrants having been duly served on Mr. O'Connor at Fort Robert, in this county, who was confined by severe illness, and a search was made at Fort Robert, and found a gold repeating watch, which was his city by the son, under a fictitious name, no proof of its being the same as the robbery of the Galway Mail, then proceeded to Palace Anne, where the Mayor for Mr. O'Connor's charge, but was refused, on being legally bailable. A Mr. O'Connor when called on, and his removal with safety, remain, for the present, at Fort Robert.

The following has appeared in the Public:

THE MARKETS.
The variations which the markets have experienced is so trifling that a quotation is almost unnecessary—the general aspect is a look down, and a greater decline may be expected—Much apprehension of a scarcity and a consequent rise in the price of provisions had been calculated upon by many, but we are happy to find they have been groundless—The appearance of the crops at home, though considered in general unpromising, have turned out better than was expected—with the exception of some of the wheats, which suffered some damage—Advices from various parts of the Continent furnish the most consolatory accounts of supplies of corn, of an excellent quality.—Some cargoes of potatoes from Jersey, of a very fine quality have arrived in Waterford—in consequence of a sufficient supply of this article, from thence, those who keep them back in order to obtain an exorbitant price will find themselves seriously disappointed.
