READFUL FIRE.

a dreadful fire broke out in the house ach fury, that notwithstanding every ade to check its progress, thirty one small arches, were consumed in the short space dryness of the thatch which fired almost

Last night, an out office, in which were six cows, the property of Mr. John Ryan, of Morroe Wood, near Newport, co. Tipperary, was consumed by fire, supposed to be maliciously—four of the cows were burned to death, and the other two having broke their balters, escaped from the flames.

Yesterday morning, about the hour of four o'clock, the dwelling house of the Rev. Frederick Blood, of Roxton, was entered by nine men, who plundered it of every article they could carry away. The steward belonging to the Rev. Gentleman, together with his wife, were the only inmates in the house, Mr. Blood and his lady being in this city for some days; this man being alarmed, succeeded in getting with his wife in getting out of one of the windows, and called on the gardener, who with him continued to observe the conduct of the robbers, while they remained regaling themselves and collecting the booty, and after leaving the house, followed them to Fountain, within two miles of Ennis, when the party seperated, taking different ways, to avoid observation. At this time some of the tenants, coming up with the steward and gardner took two of the gang prisoners, and having brought them into Ennis, gave intimation of the robbery to Thomas Crowe, Esq. who with his usual promptitude, immediately commenced a diligent search and succeeded in apprehending three of those gentry making merry with the naive, in a house in Mill street who with the other two were committed to prison.
 Alexander King, Esq. Surveyor of Excise, accompanied Mr. Crowe, in his arch after those men; the latter gentleman is now in pursuit of the rest of the gang.

The leader of this party, is a man of the name of M'Mahon, and the county Clare claims him as a son, the remainder are Garryowen boys, who were very vociferous in its praise. M'Mahon is the man who was detained in prison the period of the rebellion, to prosecute the Rev. Mr. Carrigg, but escaped from custody the evening before the trial was to have taken place —he was shortly after transported, and returning after his apprenticeship, lived in the suburbs of this city, where he formed an acquaintance with his colleagues, and allured by the prospects of great booty in Roxton, he and his comrades left this city for their destination a few nights since.

The Treasurer to the Fever Hospital has received from Mrs. Lloyd, Three Guineas, and from Mr. P. O'Callaghan Three Guineas, their annual subscription to that charity—within the last six days from 1st May, 51 Fever Patients have been admitted into the Hospital; there were then in it 90; and it contains this day 109 persons in fever.

CASTLEBAR APRIL 28.

A dreadful murder, which (from every thing we have been able to collect of the former character and habits of the perpetrator,) we are disposed to attribute rather to the unfortunate dominion of unrestrained passion than to any murderous intention or preconceived malice, was committed in Westport, at about one o'clock on the morning of Friday last. Bernard Duffy, a cooper by trade, and a publican also, being in the act of beating his wife, his son, a lad about 17 or 18 years of age, interferred to prevent her from receiving injury, when the infuriate and wretched father seized a knife, and plunged it into the boy's right breast, which immediately produced his death. The unseasonable hour in which the crime was committed, favoured the offender's escape from the vigilant police of Westport, who have been since actively engaged in pursuit of him

A description of him has been given to us, and as the publication of it may possibly lead to his detection, we readily subjoin it:—

Bernard Duffy, father of the deceased, is supposed to have left Westport early on the morning of Friday, and to have brought about twenty guineas out of his house with him—He is said to have worn on his departure, a mixed green body coat, rather old, a red waistcoat, and velvet breeches; he is about fifty six years old, grey haired, has a grey beard, grey eyes, long visage, a somewhat flighty appearance, is round shouldered, about five feet eight inches high, very slightly pock-marked, and speaks with a slight northern accent; he is a cooper by trade, was born in the North, but has been hear for many years—Mayo Constitution.

MR. BRAHAM.

We feel most perfect satisfaction in saying, that our anticipation for this Gentleman has been fully justified—He has been received in this city with the same distinction and applause which he has every where else experienced, and to which his eminent merit has given him the most solid and well ascertained claims.—On Tuesday evening his audience were numerous and respectable in the highest degree, and his whole performance was received with the most unreserved delight.—It might be tedious and perhaps difficult to describe those songs in which he most particularly excelled—yet, we cannot omit noticing the peculiar manner in which the delightful Bravura was executed by him—

MARRIAGES IN HIGH LIFE.—Wednesday se'nnight at seven o'clock, Earl Percy was married at Northumberland House, Strand, to Lady Charlotte Florentia Clive, youngest daughter of the Earl of Powis. The ceremony was performed by the Bishop of Worcester; the rector of St Martin's was also present, for the purpose of registering the marriage in the parish books. There were present the Earl and Countess of Powis, Ladies Elizabeth and Agnes Percy, Lord Clive, Lord James Murray, the Bishop of Worcester, Lord Prudhoe, Sir Watkin and Lady Harriett Wynne, and Miss Cornwall.— After the ceremony the happy pair set off for Sion House,
