

religious liberty, was proved by the sacrifice he made of the titular honours and advantages that would have been gladly lavished on him, by successive administrations, if he had surrendered his political integrity to their views. He was inflexible only in his liberal opinions—in all the relations of private life he was most placable and conciliatory. From this honest stubbornness all the influence of the ministerial hostility was exerted against him, and to such a degree of rigour was the malice of the domineering faction carried against him that for some years, with faculties unimpaired, and even while enjoying the very height of public confidence and admiration, he felt the post of honour, as of repose, to be the private station. It was peculiarly honourable to the illustrious family of Buxton, that at one and the same time, and for many years, the two brothers of the Noble Earl should be the unrivalled leaders of the English and Scots bar—both equally eminent, not only for the ardour with which they maintained the privileges, and guarded the lives, liberties, and properties of their fellow-citizens, but also for the brilliant wit, perfect integrity, and irresistible persuasion of their professional exertions. The conversational powers of Mr. Henry Erskine were of the first order—prompt, gentle, and luminous—his flashes of wit irradiated every countenance, while its amenity left nothing behind. His epigrams and bon mots were innumerable—many of them are on record—and we trust that the elegant effusions of his muse, and his impromptus at table, will be collected by the biographer of his honourable life—Globe.

SIR JOHN M'MAHON'S WILL.

Has been lodged in the Prerogative Court.—The probate was extracted on the 11th inst. and granted to the Right Hon. Sir William M'Mahon, Bart, Master of the Rolls in Ireland (the brother of the testator), who is appointed the sole executor: it is dated 26th April, 1816.

The personal property is sworn to be under £90,000.

Twenty thousand pounds are given to the said Sir William M'Mahon, and he is also appointed Residuary Legatee.

To Colonel Thomas M'Mahon, aide-de-camp to the Prince Regent, is left the sum of £10,000; to Susan Elizabeth Wylde, otherwise Milford, the sum of five thousand pounds; to Thomas Marrable, Esq. "a dear and esteemed friend" the sum of two thousand pounds. The testator adds to this bequest—"and with my last prayers for the glory and happiness of the best hearted man in the world, the Prince Regent, I bequeath him the said Thomas Marrable, as an invaluable servant.

Another bequest is to Sir Walter Farquhar, "the preserver of my life for many years," six hundred guineas, and to another medical attendant five hundred pounds.

Servants are left a year's wages each; and to a page at Carlton-house (the son of Mons. De Pasquier) to whom Sir John was Godfather, five hundred pounds is given.

We do not recollect any other bequest.

The Guild of Merchants, Dublin, have unanimously voted the Freedom of their Guild to Mr. Hawthorne, as a distinguished mark of their approbation of his conduct as Chief Commissioner of Excise.

Thursday a coal store at the south side of Blarney lane, Cork, yielding to the extraordinary pressure of the great quantity of coals therein, tumbled down the declivity, and came with such violence against another store on the North Abbey as to force down the roof, by which a young lad who was in it at the time, had his skull dreadfully fractured, and two men who went to his assistance were likewise very seriously injured.

LONDON CORN EXCHANGE, OCT. 14.

New wheat may be quoted full 10s per quarter lower, and old about 5s. and that some remained unsold at this depression. Nor is this depression to be ascribed to a glut, but to the known state of the harvest, for the supply since yesterday evening had been very scanty till yesterday morning, when there was a good arrival from Essex, Kent, and Suffolk, and the qualities generally good. Fine new barley supports its price, as does also dry graining barleys.—Boiling peas are from 4s. to 5s. dearer, but there is no alteration in grey peas or beans.

Wheat, in England, generally, appears to have fallen in price.

DUBLIN CORN EXCHANGE.

The market on Friday was well supplied with oats which became heavy at the close, and fell about 1s 6d to 2s. per barrel on last day's prices, and a good deal left unsold. Prime wheat sold freely at 42s a 44s for red and 46s to 48s for white at the commencement, but got heavy at the close. Oatmeal 14s. to 16s per cwt and in little demand. Barley 22s. to 23s. Bere 16s to 18s. Irish flour 32s to 34s. per cwt. American 66s to 68s per barrel. Whiskey 10s. 8d to 10s. 9d. per gallon. Butter looking up, 1st quality 108s; 2d ditto, 100s to 101s.

The fair of Clonroad, in the vicinage of Ennis, was held on Tuesday. The quantity of cattle on the green was considerably short of what are generally exposed there, but the buyers were numerous, and the prices given, being regulated by the recent fair of Ballinascloe, rendered the business of the day lively and satisfactory.
