

...on Tuesday, but could not clearly understand the business. We eagerly examined the Clonmel Herald of Wednesday for information on the subject; but that paper made no allusion to it. In the present state of our knowledge concerning it, we have, therefore, deemed it our duty to collect the facts sworn to, and to lay them before our readers without note or comment.—Moderator.

We are concerned to state, that the country, on the northern side of this city, continues in a very disturbed state. Scarcely a night (probably not one) passes, in which outrages have not been committed, or some peaceful family disturbed by nocturnal depredators. On Friday night last, a party attacked and set fire to the house of Thos. Grace, Muckwell, a few miles from town. The flames roused a few of his neighbours, and the Police Constables from near Castlecomer hastened to the spot. The ruffians having accomplished the incendiary part of their nefarious business, became alarmed and fled, with the exception of one Daniel Ryan, who was seized by Mr. Grace and his neighbours, and handed over to the Police, who arrived as the illaio was overcome. Ryan was immediately conveyed to Castlecomer, and was on Sunday lodged in our county gaol, under a warrant from Edward Mullen, Esq. of that town.—Kilkenny paper.

On Friday evening last, the body of a man, named Patrick Dooley, or Doolin, was found in a small rivulet, on the lands of Frenystown, a little beyond the charter School. On being informed of a circumstance, Francis Reynolds, Esq. Coroner, proceeded to hold an inquest on the body. It appeared that the deceased had been dreadfully cut and mangled about the head; and, that in a field at a little distance, to which the track of the dragged body was easily traced, there were marks which indicated a large assemblage and much struggling; after a minute investigation, the Jury found a verdict of—"Willful Murder against some person or persons unknown."—Ibid.

We have just seen a letter from a gentleman in Kesh, to a mercantile house in this town, giving an account of the Heart of Oak, Capt. M'Inerney, master, having been driven on shore in a small creek between Kesh and St. John's Point. It sailed from Dublin on the 12th inst. having on board 200 casks American flour, some hides, wine, and sundries. Nothing, says the writer, could explain the providential escape of the vessel and crew; she has received so much damage, that as the tide rises she fills, and as it falls the water goes out. She is at present unloading, and hopes are retained that the loss will be trifling.—Belfast.

Although we have no idea that any apprehension of scarcity of food, need, at present, be entertained, yet it is matter of very serious consideration that Corn and Potatoes sold at higher rates in our market on Saturday last, than on the corresponding day of the last year, and that the advance in prices has lately been more rapid than it is about that time.—Mayo paper.

We have not remembered for a series of years, to see so large a Market, nor witness a better supply of Provisions than we had on Saturday; and so great was the crowd in the principal streets, that it was next to an impossibility to pass thro' them. The great Market was also similarly supplied.—The prices, though the show was large, were rather low, and continued so throughout without alteration.—Tuam Gazette.

We are happy to say, that the alarming state of the country, which we have seen in the Dublin Papers, and which has been rather quiet in the different country ones, of late, has not reached our town or neighbourhood, to any extent. We had, it is true, a passing call of cholera, those who visited, were the most respectable, and we are sorry to add, with the exception of a few, proved fatal. We have not learned the Lord Bishop of Ossory, the following gentlemen were admitted to Deacons' Orders, viz.—Rev. Jones Ridge, Samuel Bryan, and John Cooke.—And the following were Ordained to Priests' Orders, viz: Rev. Francis Robert Sandys, Joseph Vize, John Stephen Russell, Edward Geo. Armstrong, George Smithwick, and John Graham.—Upon this occasion his Lordship delivered an appropriate exhortation, in the course of which he largely explained the qualifications necessary to constitute a faithful Minister of God's word, and pointed out, with singular judgment and peculiar felicity, the duties of the several stations to which these gentlemen might be called in the exercise of their sacred functions.

The Lord Chancellor and Lady Manners have arrived at Curraghmore, the seat of the Marquis of Waterford, where they are to pass the Christmas holidays.

Mr. Peel, Lord Allen, and a large party of sportsmen, are now on a shooting excursion at Lord Farnham's, in the county of Cavan.

We are extremely sorry to announce the death of the young Marchioness of Ormond, in the 26th year of her age.

Lord Westmeath was amongst the last arrivals in Dublin from England; his Lordship will receive a considerable accession of fortune by the death of Archdeacon King.

St. George's Alms-House. 165

THE Treasurer of ST. GEORGE'S ALMS HOUSE, is aware that in coming forward at this particular period to solicit pecuniary aid in behalf of this Institution, that in the judgment of some Persons he may be acting imprudently, when the generosity of the Public has been so often called on, and fully experienced in behalf of suffering humanity in this City.—But he feels a confidence in the experienced generosity of the Congregation of ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH, by whose fostering hand this Institution has arisen to its present state of prosperity.

The Aged and Infirm must ever have a claim on the benevolence of a humane and discerning Public, and their language is, you have for some years past raised us from want and misery, to comfort and comparative independence—you have fed us when hungry—you have clothed us when almost naked—you have sheltered us when we had not where to lay our heads—and now forsake us—will you now withhold your hands from still smoothing the rugged path of declining life—will you now cast us desolate and ready to perish with age and infirmity, upon the world at large—no, we will not fear—your bounty has been tried, and never found wanting, you have the prayers of those who were ready to perish, and we doubt not but you will still be ready to give, and glad to distribute.

The Treasurer to this Institution earnestly solicits the Public to visit this House, that they may judge for themselves how far it deserves the name it claims, a House of Mercy.

NOW in order to bring the Perpetrators of this crime to condign punishment, I do hereby offer a reward of One Hundred Pounds, to any person or persons, shall within six Calendar Months, from the date hereof prosecute to conviction, or who shall give such positive information as shall lead to the conviction of any person or persons, guilty of said crime.

THOMAS LYNCH

Dec. 20th 1817.

We, whose names are hereunto subscribed, holding in just abhorrence the Perpetrators of the above mentioned Outrage do hereby in furtherance of justice offer several sums to our names herein after annexed to any person or persons as shall prosecute to Conviction Person or Persons Guilty of said Offence.

POPULAR NOVELS

Lately published by Henry Colburn, London, AND WHICH CAN BE ORDERED AT THE OFFICE OF THIS PAPER, And at all respectable Libraries.

Tales of Wonder, of Humour and of Sentiment,

- 3 Vols. £1 1s.—By Anne & Annabella Plumptre
- 2. GLENARVON!!! 4th edition, with a preface and a new introduction, 3 vols. 11. 4s.
- 3. ADOLPHE. by Benjamin De Constant, 7s. Ditto French.

This work presents to us remarkable beauties; it compels us to think, all its characters are drawn with the hand of a master.

"M. Benjamin De Constant has penetrated deeply into the human heart; he has discovered its weak parts; has exhibited it quite naked; he has reprinted man such as he is with his weaknesses and his irresolutions—his presumption and his generosity—his littleness and his grandeur.—Gaz. de France.

4. O'DONNELL, a National Tale. By Lady Morgan, 3rd edition, 3 vols. 11. 1s.

5. RHODA. By the ingenuous author of Plain Sense and Things, by their Right Names, 4 vols. 11. 8s

6. EDGAR, a National Tale. By Miss Appleton, author of 'Private Education,' 3 vols. 11. 1s.

* This is one of the few fictions, that like the writings of an Edgeworth or a Burney, may be placed with great advantage in the hands of the youthful reader of either sex.

"The most noble, the most loyal, the most heroic sentiments beam throughout; the finest, the purest lessons of morality are inculcated in every page."

7. TALES OF FANCY. By Miss Burney, author of Traits of Nature, Clarentine, &c. 7s. 6d.

8. TRAITS OF NATURE. By Miss Burney, 2d edition, 4 vols. 11. 8s.

9. CLARENTINE. By Miss Burney, 2d edition, 3 vols. 11. 1s.

10. JANE OF FRANCE. By Madame de Genlis, 2 vols. 12s.

11. HUMAN NATURE, 3 vols. 18s.

12. THE HEROINE; or Adventures of a Fair Romance Reader. By E. S. Barret, Esq. 3rd edition 3 vols. 18s.

In point of wit and humour, this work has justly been classed in the same rank with Tristram Shandy

13. AMABEL; or Memoirs of a Woman of Fashion; By the Author of the Mourtray Family, 4 vols. 11. 8s.

14. THE MOURTRAY FAMILY 2nd edition, 4 vols. 11. 4s.

15. THE MILESIAN CHIEF; a Romance. By the Rev. R. Maturin, author of the Tragedy of Bertram, 4 vols. 11. 1s.

16. ZULMA and other TALKS; by Madame De Stael Holstein, author of Corione, Delphine, &c. 2 volumes, 10s. 6d.

17. CORIENE
